Work Starts on Upper Section of New Highway Outlet

Spectacular aerial view shows new highway outlet to up-Island points, the clear "ribbon" of road being the first section, now completed. Work on the $1,000,000 second section has been resumed by Emil Andersen Co., and workmen have already cleared the right-of-way. Rock blasting near Thetis Lake will commence soon. Section involved is a six-mile stretch (near top of picture) between Burnside and Goldstream, and includes widening "suicide corner." (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Business Tax Hinted for School Costs

Mayor Will Place Budget 'Before the Government'

Increasing school costs may force the city of Victoria to introduce a business tax, Mayor Claude Harrison warned Wednesday night.

The mayor, Ald. Frank Mulliner and city manager Cecil Wyatt attended a special school board meeting to see if the board's 1954 budget might be trimmed.

The board said no, and Mayor Harrison left the meeting saying he would "take the matter to the government."

He is to make a formal report to City Council this afternoon.

Prompted by Mayor Harrison throughout the meeting to render suggestions for a cut in estimates, the board repeatedly referred to the standard of education demanded by the public and termed it "a costly process."

The only item which could be cut from the budget, said Trustee W. H. Golby, is a $6,000 allocation for assessment of school properties.

Trustee Austin Curtis, however, felt that an appraisal "may be an economic step." He said the work had been put off year after year.

14,000 Students By 1959

Board chairman Walter Jeune said the school population is increasing at the rate of 1,000 per year and that by 1959 the student population of Greater Victoria will be in excess of 14,000.

"Our teachers' salaries," the chairman continued, "are quite a deal lower than they are in many districts."

He said that with the prevailing scarcity of teachers, Victoria cannot attract good ones unless a reasonably good salary is paid.

"Our teachers' salaries are low . . . only because teachers like to live here," said W. H. Haldane, school board solicitor.

Mayor Harrison said that the city's biggest trouble is money.

"Where are we going to get it? Who is going to pay for it? . . . We are going to go broke," he said.

The mayor expressed fear of bankruptcy.

"Unless something is done by holding the line, I'm telling you we are going there," he emphasized.

The board, said Mr. Jeune, "has spent hours keeping down the budget."

Chairman of the finance committee, Mr. Golby, said: "We have come to realize that the Canadian way of education is a costly process."

"You are now the victims of a curriculum. Get the government to modify it," Ald. Frank Mulliner retorted.

Public Demands High Standard

Mr. Golby said that "the public wouldn't go for that," and that it is demanding a higher standard of education. The only changes that could be made (beside the $6,000) would be so "superficial" that they would have little bearing on the overall budget.

"Then we'll very likely have a business tax," said Mayor Harrison.

Mr. Curtis said that council can refuse the school board's budget on only two points—that the budget is excessive or that it is beyond the means of the municipality to pay.

"If you can show excessiveness in the budget, I for one would be prepared to cut it," said Mr. Curtis. He said that tax collections in the city last year hit a record and that he "can't share his worship's gloomy picture of the situation."

Trustees Mrs. G. E. McGill vigorously opposed Ald. Mulliner's suggestion to cut out pre-primary classes. She said "we are miles behind older countries regarding the establishment of pre-primary classes. If we closed them, we wouldn't gain a great deal financially."

The City of Victoria's share in school costs for 1954 amounts to $1,569,402, representnig an increase of $140,049 over last year. Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Saanich and rural areas have accepted the 1954 school board estimates.

U.K. PRESS SAYS

Joe's Sword Higher Than Eisenhower's

LONDON (AP) — President Eisenhower's statement in Washington Wednesday on Senator McCarthy drew a chorus of "weak," "disappointing" and "scarcely a slap on the wrist" from British newspapers today.

"Eisenhower spoke today—at last—about McCarthyism; he left the senator rejoicing," said the London News Chronicle's story on Wednesday's United States presidential press conference.

"The President's sword was blunted and dangling tonight; the senator's was flourished higher than ever," the Liberal paper added.

12-Foot Drifts Isolate Many Ontario Areas

By BRITISH UNITED PRESS

Highway snow plows bucked drifts up to 12 feet deep today in efforts to reach scores of small southwestern Ontario communities isolated for four days by the worst series of storms in 50 years.

Southern Ontario was virtually an emergency area as the latest storm passed over. The city of Chatham and many smaller communities were isolated, thousands of children were home from school, all travel was stopped except by train, and communication lines were down.

Crews working day and night finally managed to clear a road into Windsor at noon today but it urged motorists to stay at home except for the most urgent travel. Officials said driving conditions around Chatham and London were "hazardous if not impossible."

Highways through stricken Ontario areas were lined with trucks and cars Wednesday night while their occupants canvassed farmhouses for any sort of accommodation.

Traffic was cut off to Dresden, Blenheim, Ridgetown, Tilbury, Erieau and Thamesville. Thamesville could not be reached even by telephone. Telephone and telegraph wires to Kincardine also were down and only trains were getting through.

The main force of the storm missed Toronto but left ice-glazed streets which caused mile-long traffic jams this morning.

EPIC OF EVEREST THRILLS CITY GIRL

A Victoria girl at present studying at McGill University has written her mother an enthusiastic review of the Sir Edmund Hillary illustrated lecture, which she saw at Currie Memorial Gymnasium in Montreal recently.

"They (Hillary, Lowe and Dr. Evans) captivated us all with their excellent account of the climb," the Victoria student wrote.

"The immense color slides are breath-taking.

"It is done so well that you can almost imagine that you yourself are the ones to reach the summit of Everest first."

This view was confirmed in a long-distance telephone conversation between the Times and James Morris, London Times reporter, who is traveling with the team, in San Francisco. "The pictures are excellent," said Morris.

The team arrives in Victoria Sunday night. They appear at Memorial Arena, under Times sponsorship, Monday night.

A concert by the band of HMCS Naden at 7.30 p.m. precedes the lecture, which commences at 8.

Malahat Crash Victim In Critical Condition

Daughter of Father of Confederation, Miss Lena Galt, One of Four Injured

A 90-year-old woman, Miss Lena Galt, is in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today following a two-car collision on the Malahat Wednesday night.

Three other persons were less seriously injured.

Miss Galt is a daughter of one of the Fathers of Confederation, Sir Alexander Tilloch Galt.

The accident occurred at about 5.15 p.m. when a taxi and a private car both heading south sideswiped and collided just below the entrance to Hall's Boathouse.

Three passengers in a Bluebird Cab driven by Adolf Fred Heglin, 1156 View Street, were taken to Jubilee Hospital.

They are Mrs. E. Hurjck, Saskatoon, back injuries; Mrs. M. Smith, Burnaby, shock and an injured shoulder, and Mrs. B. Williamson, 62 Government, who suffered lacerations about the nose and ear. Police said Mrs. Williamson was host to her out-of-town guests on a sightseeing trip over the mountain highway.

Miss Lena Galt was a passenger in a car driven by her sister, Miss Muriel Galt. The two women reside at 1005 St. Charles Street.

The injured woman suffered shock, fractures and bruises. Her condition was given as "good" following her admittance to hospital but worsened overnight.

It is presumed that the car driven by Miss Galt pulled out to pass the taxi, swung in too close and locked bumpers with the taxi, police said.

The Galt sisters have lived in Victoria for many years. Their father, Alexander Galt, was finance minister in the Cartier-Macdonald government in 1858 and saw the first four provinces united, Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. He had 13 children, five sons and eight daughters.

Blind Bandmaster Dies in Crash When Hurled From Car to Curb

A happy outing for a group of Victoria blind people became a tragedy Wednesday when the car in which they were riding was in collision with a truck.

One of the sightless passengers was killed.

Five persons were hurt.

Dead is Victoria's "Little Bandmaster," Charles H. Rowles, 65, leader of boys' bands in the city since 1921.

Force of impact with the truck threw his 112-pound body out of the car, smashing his head against a curb.

He was Victoria's first 1954 traffic fatality.

He was pronounced dead soon after arrival at Jubilee Hospital.

Among the hurt were two other blind persons and two sighted. One was the driver of the Northwestern Creameries' truck, Charles MacFarlane. None of the injuries were serious and only two were in hospital today.

(See pictures, Page 13)

The accident took place at the corner of Cook and Pembroke Streets at about 1.30 p.m. A passenger sedan driven by Ernest Hawker, 941 Foul Bay Road, was crossing the intersection on Pembroke, when struck by the van which was going south on Cook.

Side of the Hawker auto was caved in and both vehicles twisted off the roadway and came to rest against the fence of Royal Athletic Park.

The car tore out a stop sign as it careened to a stop.

Driver Hawker was unhurt in the crash. Beside him sat Mrs. Janet Carr, 63, of 2703 Avebury. She suffered a possible fractured left shoulder and is in satisfactory condition. She is totally blind.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

Her husband, David Carr, 72, received only a forehead cut and suffered shock. He was against the right front door which was stove in by the nose of the truck. He is still in hospital. Fully sighted, Mr. Carr acts as a guide to his wife on the weekly excursion to White Cane Club meetings.

In the back seat on the right sat Ernest Weber, 45, of 2001 Cameron. He had a slight head abrasion. He is partially blind. Mrs. Weber, 45, sat beside him. She has full use of her eyes. She emerged from the crash with three broken ribs but was released from hospital with Mr. Weber.

The man who died was seated in the position farthest removed from the point of impact, in the left rear. But with the crash the left rear door flew open and he was thrown out.

Truck driver MacFarlane was released from hospital after

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX UNCHANGED IN JANUARY

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index remained unchanged at 115.7 during January.

Food prices edged ahead slightly, but the shelter column, which includes rents, remained unchanged for the first time in many months, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The consumer price index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Before January, the yardstick had declined three months in a row, each successive drop smaller than the other.

IN THE BRIER CUP

Alberta Undefeated; B.C. Beats N.S. 10-5

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—Alberta continued its smart victory march today through the dominion curling championships by downing last-place Newfoundland 20-6 for a seven-game winning streak.

Matt Baldwin of Edmonton took a 2-0 in the first end and was never headed by Robert Kent's quartette from St. John's, which has failed to gain a single win in seven tries.

Alberta had its strongest end in 13th, good for five counters, and scored another four in the last end.

The major upset of the morning draw was Saskatchewan's 10-8 win over Northern Ontario, although Don Groom's Sudbury rink still held down second place in the round-robin series.

The Campbell rink from Avonlea, Sask., had to overcome a big deficit to gain its victory. The decisive play was a three-ender in the important 11th after the Groom rink miscued on knockout rocks.

In other games of the seventh draw, British Columbia downed New Brunswick 10-5, Nova Scotia defeated Prince Edward Island 16-4, and Ontario scored five counters in the ninth for a 13-10 win over Quebec.

Manitoba relaxed this morning with a bye.

Girl Thinks Ex-Lover Involved In Peculiar Death of Rome Beauty

ROME, Italy (UP)—A glamorous daughter of a prominent lawyer testified today she suspected her blue-blooded former lover and the son of the Italian foreign minister were "somehow mixed up" in the sensational death of a 21-year-old Roman beauty.

Anna Maria Moneta Caglio, 23-year-old star witness, testified in the opening day of the resumed trial of journalist Silvano Muto in Rome's penal court. The case, dubbed Italy's "scandal of the century," involves alleged narcotics traffic, sex, good-time girls and top-level politicians.

Miss Moneta Caglio, whom the press has labeled "The Black Swan," said her suspicions about Piero Piccioni, son of foreign minister Attilio Piccioni, and about the wealthy Marchese Ugo Montagna, her one-time lover, arose from an overheard telephone conversation between the two "good friends."

All Italy has been agog over the case stirred up by Muto, 26-year-old editor and publisher of the sensational magazine Attualita.

He charged that beautiful Wilma Montesi, who was found dead and half disrobed on a lonely beach outside Rome last April 12, died of an overdose of drugs.

Muto was charged by the state with spreading false and tendentious information liable to disturb public order.

The magazine story directly implicated the Marchese Ugo Montaga in allegations of narcotics traffic and sex orgies at the St. Hubert Hunting Club, which is frequented by Italy's nobility.

FBI on Guard Against Ike Assassination

From UP and AP Dispatches

WASHINGTON — Federal authorities fear Puerto Rican Nationalists may try to assassinate President Eisenhower or Secretary of State John Foster Dulles as a "death present" for their ailing leader, a high government source reported today.

Pedro Albizu Campos, brooding head of the Nationalist party, lies seriously ill in Puerto Rico. Although he is not considered in immediate danger of death, officials believe his declining health could be very explosive.

If Albizu's fanatical followers feel he has little longer to live, the government source said there is a definite fear here that they may make another suicidal attack on U.S. leaders as a final "present."

The latest developments:

1. It was learned from authoritative sources that the FBI repeatedly has warned the justice department that Nationalists were conspiring to assassinate U.S. leaders.

2. The justice department put it up to the FBI to produce enough evidence to smash the Nationalist party by prosecuting its leaders under the Smith Act that makes it a crime to advocate the overthrow of the government. If it gets the evidence, the department is understood to be ready to seek indictments.

3. Police seized five Puerto Ricans early today in Chicago, and two in Havana, Cuba, in a roundup of leaders of the Puerto Rican Nationalist movement.

Officers declined to say what action would be taken against the men.

4. Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich.), the man most seriously wounded in the assault, was removed from the "critical" list Wednesday but his condition was reported as still serious today. The other four congressional victims were out of danger.

The FBI, secret service and uniformed police in Washington were on a 24-hour alert against possible new Nationalist violence in the light of the reported assassination plot and the fear of a "death present."

IRREVERENT, MAYBE . . . BUT PHILIP LOVES IT

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Melbourne university students today poked fun at the royal tour in an irreverent reception for the Duke of Edinburgh—and he loved it.

Outside the university union house, the students unrolled a moth-eaten carpet for the duke, presented him with a pair of crutches, an admission ticket and a huge silver key.

One student prepared to read a speech of welcome compressed into a summary "which will take longer than one and one-half hours to read." He threw it into the air instead and, as the pages showered around him, the duke said with a grin: "That was a good speech."

STOTT in the HOUSE

Mrs. Arsens – for Problems, Sweetness and Large Faith

ALL the beauty in the Legislature is on the government side, two desks down from the premier. It was revealed fetchingly yesterday as Mrs. Lydia Arsens made another of her captivating speeches. She was radiant in stylish black with a pink and white corsage.

There was something pink and white, too, about her speech. Engaging as the gurgling of a happy infant, it seemed to picture the pure heart, hurt only by the follies of others, but sublime in faith.

More in sorrow than anger the lady had to protest against the press, and the wrong interpretation it placed on her remarks. She broached that theme as she recapitulated her previous speech in the Legislature ("three garbage cans for every house"). And her idea was good, Mrs. Arsens said. She has taken the trouble to see what other cities did with their garbage and several in the U.S. had used part of it to fertilize their parks — excellent fertilizer.

Then there was the "ridiculous business" of the library and the wrong quotations attributed to her on seditious literature. She'd shown The Colonist where it was wrong, but it hadn't even apologized.

If she had her way, she'd grade newspapers like children in school. Each would start with 100 marks and one would be taken off for each error it made. Some of them would soon be rated fourth class, and she'd have that stamped on the front page, where subscribers could see it. That ought to teach them responsibility.

Solving Teacher Shortage

And she'd do something about the teacher shortage. If the government gave a 20 or 25 per cent bonus to rural teachers, she thought it would attract to rural schools some who are congregating in the cities. Then she'd speed up training. Teachers don't need long courses in Normal School, she said. They become experienced teachers in the classroom, not at Normal. Let the training course be six weeks or two months. At all events, teachers have to get down to the level of their students—and kindness, patience and experience will help them.

Mrs. Arsens didn't refer to Certain U.S. surveys which suggest some teachers should get up to the level of their students.

The lady let the public in on the sorrows and joys of her political thought.

The last by-election had made her heart ache.

It had made Mr. Gunderson's ache, too, said a voice across the floor.

Why was he beaten? asked Mrs. Arsens.

"Because we got too many votes," replied Liberal Leader Arthur Laing.

One very fine young man had stepped down to make way for Mr. Gunderson, Mrs. Arsens continued.

And he hadn't done badly since, remarked another opposition member.

Still the big heartache came when Mr. Gregory, a fine progressive young man, had allowed himself to stand as a Liberal. Even he hadn't been ready to make the sacrifice for the good of the country that would have allowed Mr. Gunderson to be elected unopposed.

Just before she adjourned debate, Mrs. Arsens exposed the press again. There was no petition by members seeking higher indemnities and no one had signed one.

"Oh, yes," said Dr. Larry Giovando, "there was a petition and I signed it."

That wasn't a petition, explained Mrs. Arsens with an air of cool reason. That was merely a list of names placed on a piece of paper suggesting that the Cabinet consider giving extra money to members whose expenses were so great they were out of pocket.

In Tones of Melancholy

Mrs. Arsens furnished an excellent contrast to two earlier speakers, Esquimalt's Social Crediter H. J. Bruch and CCF veteran Arthur Turner.

Mr. Bruch, who speaks in a monotone as if there were something melancholy about the whole thing, covered his riding meticulously; raised his praises to the Social Credit administration and uncovered an advertisement from The Victoria Times. The ad, June 6, 1952, had indicated the Liberal convention's support for extension of the PGE at both ends.

So what? asked a voice from the Liberal side. The Liberals weren't on record against it. All they wanted was a good look into the question.

Mr. Turner, the careful Socialist student of politics, contradicted other speakers of the day. He wasn't impressed by the "second-lookers" in the government. They were "second-lookers," he said, because they were incompetent. He reminded them of Lot's wife, who took a a second look and was "salted down, good and plenty."

Mr. Turner had a word or two also for a trend he noticed developing in various parts of Canada from library boards to school trustees associations. He made a plea to keep away from McCarthyism or any smell of it.

That brought the statement from Premier Bennett that B.C. is 100 per cent against McCarthyism, and an announcement from Attorney-General Bonner that the education department declined to recognize a trustees' suggestion that teachers might be fired without being given full reasons—a point raised by Mr. Turner.

The second member for Vancouver East had kind words to say about the B.C. Power Commission, suggested it be given distribution authority over natural gas piped into the province, and declared himself for PGE extension and the industrial development of the territory the railway served.

RURAL BOUNTY

Mrs. Arsens Asks Bonus For Teachers

Every teacher in rural schools should receive a 20 or 25 per cent salary bonus to interest them in teaching in outlying areas, Mrs. Lydia Arsens, former Alberta school teacher and Victoria Socred MLA said Wednesday.

She urged also in the Legislature that normal school courses could be cut down to "six weeks or two months" to supply much needed teachers in B.C.

Practical teaching experience was best. "No Normal school training can compare," she said.

She was critical of "vague" report cards now issued. A return to the percentage system of grading pupils would boost work incentive among school children.

Turner Wants Natural Gas Distribution Be Put in B.C. Power Commission's Hands

Franchise for distribution of natural gas should be given the B.C. Power Commission, Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) told the Legislature Wednesday.

When private enterprise takes over comparable projects, rates do not come down, he said, pointing out that under the B.C. Power Commission it was "not uncommon" to see rates cut.

On the distribution question generally, he said if capitalism had the solution to the problem, it would have solved it by now.

He called the Social Credit administration "incompetent," and added that since he had been in the Legislature (1941) "never were so many things withdrawn in so short a time."

Mr. Turner advocated that the government study feasibility of setting up a veterinary school "probably in Edmonton" in conjunction with governments of the three other western provinces.

At present the nearest such school is in Guelph, Ont. There was not enough demand, yet, for B.C. to have its own school, Mr. Turner said. Cost of the school could be split among provinces.

He was critical of the House's standing orders—which dictate parliamentary behavior—calling them "undemocratic and, frustrating."

He termed a "dangerous trend" the recent request by the B.C. School Trustees Association to the provincial education department asking power to fire "unsuitable" teachers without stating a reason.

Education Minister Bonner interjected to say the request was not being entertained.

Local Option Petition Ads Misleading, Says Legislator

Both petition and advertising forms used to obtain a local option vote on the liquor question are incorrectly drawn up, Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East), told the Legislature Wednesday.

He said they produced a "misleading" impression that a person must sign the petition in order to obtain a vote in any forthcoming plebiscite.

Mr. Turner said hypocrisy should be removed in liquor administration, urging that in all areas which vote dry all liquor outlets be banned.

Owners of private clubs and similar establishments preferred the dry state to the wet because it sent more business their way, he said.

He was also critical of the policy limiting outlets to downtown areas.

"If it's sinful, let's spread the sin around a bit," he said.

Haida, Cayuga, Crusader Arrive Tokyo Monday for PM's Inspection

TOKYO (AP) Three Canadian destroyers will arrive in Tokyo Monday for a four-day visit, the Canadian Navy announced today.

Destroyers Haida, Cayuga and Crusader will be inspected by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, who will pay a three-day state visit to Japan beginning March 10.

The destroyers presently are serving with United Nations naval forces in the Far East.

The Prime Minister arrived at Jakarta, Indonesia, from Ceylon on his world tour today and was welcomed at the airport by Prime Minister Ali Sastramidjojo and members of the cabinet.

Mr. St. Laurent looked rested and cheerful at a press conference at the Jakarta airport.

"I bring greetings from Canada to the people of Indonesia," he said. "This is about as far as we can get from Ottawa but the good will of our countries can easily span the distance.

CHIANG GETTING SET FOR MAINLAND DRIVE

TAIPEH, Formosa (UP)—Premier Chen Cheng told the Chinese national assembly today Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies were making "active" final preparations for a counter-attack against Red China.

Chen, the Koumintang's candidate for vice-president, said the time was almost at hand to attempt to wrest control of Red China from the grip of dictator Mao Tse-Tung.

Chen's statement on returning to the mainland was the boldest official prediction made here on Nationalist intentions, although Chiang told his troops previously that 1954 would be the "year of decision" for China.

Fraser River Delta Oil Probe Starts Soon

VANCOUVER (CP) — Exploratory drilling for oil in the Fraser river delta of British Columbia is expected to start soon, it was announced here Wednesday.

Frank Yeomans, a city real estate agent, said four exploratory wells are planned in a $600,000 oil-hunting project to be financed by two Vancouver business men and Glasscock Drilling Company of Corpus Christi, Texas. He added that no stock was being offered for sale.

Final approval of permits to drill some 100,000 offshore acres around Roberts Bank, Boundary Bay and the banks of the Fraser is expected shortly, Mr. Yeomans said.

A survey of the area has already been completed by Trafford and Associates, geological and petroleum engineering consultants of Calgary.

Oil drilling in the area is not new. Some 40 wells have been sunk in the last 50 years. No large quantities of oil or natural gas were discovered, although the majority found traces of oil.

Quebec Asked to Think Twice on New Taxes

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association asked the Quebec government to reconsider its proposed personal income tax legislation and suspend enactment for the present time.

The provincial income tax bill, known as Bill No. 43, was introduced by Premier Maurice Duplessis last month.

The CMA claimed in a six-point submission to the government that the act would result in a group of Quebec taxpayers being "subject to double and discriminatory taxation."

THAT INCOME TAX MAN AGAIN

MPs, Senators Discover Big Cut in Wage Boost

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Members of parliament are beginning to learn that being in the $10,000-a-year income class is not all its cracked up to be due to income tax deductions.

The first pay increase under the higher indemnity scale was made March 1 to the members. They found that the income tax collector had slashed hard at the source.

Size of the deductions for income tax purposes has left some members wondering if it was all worth while.

Out of the $8,000 taxable annual indemnity (a member receives an indemnity annually now of $10,000 but $2,000 is tax free) a married member with two children stands to lose $1,134 in income taxes. On the former tax scale the same member would have lost only $303.

A senator in the same category stands to lose more to the tax collector because the senator enjoys no tax-free allowance. His annual income tax on his indemnity will amount to $1,642 a year. His former tax was only $703.

Arson Claimed In Toronto Fire; 20 Saved

Second Incident In Four Weeks

TORONTO (CP)—A fire authority said today a fire which broke out in a building where 20 men were sleeping Wednesday night was set deliberately.

Platoon chief Percy Taylor said the blaze in the downtown Jarvis Street house in which the men had paid 75 cents each for a place to sleep "could not possibly have started without someone setting it."

Constable Wilfred Death was credited with saving the men, bringing his life-saving total for the month to 53 persons.

He saw smoke curling from the building, kicked down the front door and shouted to wake the men. Then he went upstairs and helped out an elderly man with a heart condition.

Taylor said a fire a month ago in a dwelling across the street where 25 children and eight adults were sleeping was also set deliberately. Both buildings are owned by the same company, he said.

Constable Death was also credited with turning in the alarm on the first blaze.

"Today's fire started in a partition behind a bathroom sink," Taylor said. "There was no wiring there and no heating equipment, nor anything that could start a fire by spontaneous combustion."

FRENCH MAKE BIG REFORMS IN TUNISIA

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—France today published a list of long-promised administrative reforms putting Tunisia on the road toward home rule.

The sweeping nature of the reforms is unprecedented in the 73-year history of French rule in North Africa.

The new premier, Mohammed Salah M'Zali, who formerly held the post of first minister, now will assume the full powers and responsibilities of prime minister. This means that a Tunisian will be placed at the head of Tunisian affairs for the first time.

The reform decrees also provide for a consultative assembly composed of 45 Tunisians with advisory responsibilities, balanced by an assembly comprising 23 representatives of French colonists and 19 aides. Both bodies will be elected by popular vote.

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Bank Act Revision Debate Will Be Socred Theorists Chance

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister D. C. Abbott today was scheduled to introduce one of the government's major legislative proposals for the 1954 session of Parliament — the regular 10-year revision of the Bank Act.

The debate starting today was expected to parallel the long-drawn-out discussions of the Crmiinal Code and the revised National Housing Act which formed the meat of the current session.

Abbott's preliminary resolution gave only a glimpse of the extent to which the Bank Act review might go. It said that the bill to be introduced would extend the charters of the existing commercial banks until July 1, 1954, and make "certain changes in connection with the adminsitration of the act."

The Bank Act is the basis of most aspects of Canadian commercial and economic activity. It must be reviewed every 10 years by Parliament.

The bank act revision opened the door to lengthy discussion by Social Credit members of their proposals for monetary reform—the issuance of "debt-free" money by the Bank of Canada to make purchasing power equal to present and potential productive capacity of the country.

Abbott freely said a year ago he wanted to quit the finance ministry before he got tangled in debate on Social Credit principles.

The End of the Surplus

IN PRACTICAL POLICY THE Conservative charge of "over-taxation" against the St. Laurent Government never has made sense. It no longer makes sense even in mathematics. For the fact of the matter is that the Government is no longer accumulating revenue surpluses and retiring debt. It will be lucky indeed, says the reliable, non-partisan Canadian Tax-Foundation, to balance its current budget. And in the fiscal year starting April 1 we may well fall into deficit.

The experts of the Tax-Foundation calculate that in the current year, ending March 31, the Government will probably spend about $24 millions more than it collects. This disregards huge deficits in the old age pension fund, now running at about $60 millions a year. If these are taken into account, as they should be, we are operating on a deficit now and will certainly incur one again next year. The lush days of surplus and debt retirement are over. There is no more "over-taxation."

Whether taxes are too high is, of course, another matter. But taxes cannot be safely reduced unless we are prepared to economize and cut down public services. Obviously not many Canadians, as reflected in their Parliament, are prepared to do that. Everybody wants lower taxes. Few are prepared to accept the reduced governmental services needed to provide them.

Looking at the current figures, the Tax Foundation sees no chance of any substantial tax cut in Mr. Abbott's forthcoming — and last — budget. There may be some marginal changes, but Mr. Abbott has no elbow room between costs and revenues—that is, unless he budgets on the assumption of a large growth in the nation's wealth during the present year. Barring a serious recession in the United States, there should be some growth but hardly as much as in recent years. The tempo of the world and the Canadian boom is slowing down, inevitably, after a long period of inflation.

Says the Foundation: "With no leeway for the revenue losses which would result from tax reductions, and with a continuation of the present pay-as-you-go program, there will be little opportunity for important changes in the next budget. There will, of course, be the usual technical revisions, with their minor implications for revenue; and, if he minister of finance is a little more optimistic than we have been in our forecast (of national wealth) he may find room for a few surprises involving limited tax reliefs. Over all is the growing deficit in the old age security fund, and if some additional allocations of existing revenue to the fund are thought to be appropriate the year's results will undoubtedly show a deficit."

In other words, if Canada wants its present public services it must pay for them and, at existing tax rates, there will be little or nothing left over for tax cuts.

The Principle Is Acknowledged

THE LATEST RULING OF THE Board of Transport Commissioners acknowledges in principle the right of Victoria to equal treatment with Vancouver on freight rates to and from the east. That right was in force from 1907 to 1949, when a reorganization of western rates abolished it. On less than carload lots to and from the east Victoria shippers and consumers since then have had to pay freight on from 70 to 106 extra miles of hauling.

The new ruling, to take effect within the next year, restores by approximately 50 per cent the parity with Vancouver shippers and consumers. It is to be hoped that, the principle again recognized, the Board will now consider removal of the remaining discrimination, and restore Victoria and Vancouver to an equal footing as regards freight to and from points lying east of Hope, B.C.

In this connection, Victorians will give great credit to the local Chamber of Commerce, which has waged an unceasing campaign since 1949 to have parity re-established. With the further support of Mayor Harrison and the Provincial Government, the Chamber has rendered a valuable service to local commerce.

It is not likely that the present rate changes will be reflected directly in local prices; on any common item the advantage will be only a fraction of a cent. But in total, as a levy on the annual sales in this community, and as a charge on goods shipped eastward by local manufacturers, the rate involves important amounts. Approximately half this load has now been ordered removed. The next step is obvious and should not be too long delayed.

A Job Well Done

IT WAS A GREAT DAY FOR THE countless friends of Victoria Nursing Home Wednesday, when the cornerstone of the new building was "well and truly laid" by His Honor, Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace.

At present, some 38 chronically-ill patients, whose average age is over 80, are being cared for in the old building. Capacity will be virtually trebled in the new quarters, and among them—as His Honor pointed out in his address—will be many senior citizens who were pioneers of this province. Cost of the new building is divided between the Federal and Provincial governments and by the citizens of Victoria, who approved the necessary funds in a recent plebiscite.

It was appropriate that opening ceremonies yesterday should be in the hands of Mr. F. E. Winslow, Victoria's "Good Citizen" of last year, who has been on the Board of Directors since its inauguration in 1944. It was appropriate also that in the audience were his co-directors, Alderman Margaret Christie and Dr. J. W. Lennox, who have labored so tirelessly for the Home; and that in attendance were many representatives of the womens' auxiliaries of First United Church, St. Andrews Presbyterian Welfare Group, and the Home, whose efforts have played a tremendous part in the realization of this dream.

In a moving benediction, Canon George Biddle invoked the Lord's blessing on those whose vision and energy had made the new Home possible, and those who served its high purpose. Their reward will come in the simple knowledge that they have been of service to the entire community.

FROM WASHINGTON — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Invisible Man

ACCORDING to one of the popular myths of our time, Americans know nothing about Canada while Canadians know all about the United States. There is much to be said for the first half of the myth—the Americans certainly have the wildest notions about us. But not much for the second half—Canadians know far less about their neighbors than they suppose.

Hutchison

This was never so obvious as in the last few months when the Affair Gouzenko angered the Canadian people as they have never been angered in the present generation.

MR. IGOR GOUZENKO, the Invisible Man, who cannot possibly understand Canada, his adopted country, acted as a catalyst in an explosive chemistry. There is no need to go over these curious and rather ridiculous events, in which a former Russian cipher clerk quite unconsciously evoked the deepest racial feelings of the Canadian people. I wish merely to set down for the information of Canadians the fact that they grossly misconstrued the feelings of the Americans in this unhappy incident.

CANADIANS quite properly resented and resisted the attempt of a Congressional committee to invade Canada with its familiar equipment of television cameras, theatrical props and circus effects for the purpose of interviewing Mr. Gouzenko, who had nothing whatever to reveal.

But that was not the chief cause of Canadian anger. Canada blew its top only when it heard that Mr. Lester Pearson was being smeared in the United States as a man soft on communism. And no wonder. This smear was taken as an insult not to our government but to every Canadian. No one resented it more—it should be said to their honor—than the leaders of the opposition parties in Parliament.

THE POINT, however, is that the Canadian people totally misunderstood and exaggerated the supposed smear. They thought that the whole American press was full of these vile insinuations, that all Americans were reading them. In fact, very few Americans ever heard of them at all.

The smear was floated out, no doubt, deliberately, by certain irresponsible elements in the Republican Party. The Canadian Government has no doubt that the whole thing was planned and thinks it knows pretty well who the planners were. They certainly were no part of the Eisenhower Government which, it can be said with assurance, was utterly appalled at the results within Canada.

THE SMEAR never went far. Among all the well-informed persons I met in Washington and New York during the last month not one had ever heard that Mr. Pearson's name had been brought into question. Their responsible newspapers had never carried a word about it. Indeed, they could hardly believe it when I told them that the Canadian people were enraged, because we saw no reason for any resentment.

Quite naturally, I suppose, but probably with too much excitement in the headlines, the smear, a little-noted piece of nastiness in the United States, swept across Canada. It was big news here. Every Canadian who could read or listen to a radio heard all about it.

We in Canada thus misjudged the feelings of our neighbors. All the Americans I saw resented the whole business as much as we did, once they heard of it, but still could not quite believe that the Canadian people would be so foolish as to pay any attention to it.

THEY ARE used to smears down there and are getting an immunity to them. And this particular smear hardly penetrated the consciousness of the nation. Its harm was confined almost entirely to Canada, where it cut deep and probably left a scar.

This was all quite unnecessary and, in a small way, quite tragic. Anyone who cares to read our parliamentary record will see how seriously our government regarded it, but not in the way you might suppose.

Mr. Pearson could easily have struck an attitude, beaten his breast and denounced his accusers. The government could have taken an heroic stance, lectured the United States and probably won some votes. They did nothing of the sort—not because they were alarmed about the Americans but because they were shocked by the anger of the Canadians.

THIS GOVERNMENT, like all Canadian governments, knows that one of its largest tasks, perhaps the largest of all, is to get on with the United States. Any quarrel in that quarter, as Mr. Pearson said at the height of the Gouzenko incident, is unthinkable. Therefore, the government's whole efforts were designed to cool off Canadian opinion, which had so greatly misunderstood the opinion of the American people.

Perhaps, after all, it was a good thing that the Invisible Man touched off this affair for it compelled both the Canadian and American peoples to think hard on their future relations. It also showed us, or should have showed us, that we can be as mistaken about Americans as they often are about us.

The Beagle Has Its Day

New York Times

THE American Kennel Club reports that the familiar cocker spaniel, after enjoying an unparalleled 17 years as the nation's most popular pedigreed dog, has lost its position to the beagle hound.

The beagle had been closely trailing the cocker in popularity since 1940, but until this year it had seemed that the sad-eyed, floppy-eared cocker had won for itself the permanent title of America's best-loved pedigreed dog.

This was not difficult to understand. A small dog, the cocker is adaptable and well-dispositioned. Its initial rise to great popularity was spurred by the appearance of a number of magnificent champions.

Moreover, there is something remarkably doggish about the cocker spaniel. It is easy to think of a cocker in almost any situation in which a dog might find itself: on the point at a field trial, taut and dignified; guiltily wagging its truncated tail by the remains of a pilfered roast; or mesmerized into a joyous melange of paws and ears at the sound of its master's returning tread.

The cocker will always be a popular dog and can well afford to share its laurels with the beagle. The latter, like the cocker, is a hunting dog and one of the two true hounds. Known since the time of Shakespeare for its ruggedness and intelligence, the beagle has many of the qualities that have made the cocker popular.

Originally a dog of the fields, it seems to find no difficulty in adjusting to urban living, and makes a fine pet around children. The beagle also possesses a magnificent voice. At one time called buglers, the beagle's resonant, bell-toned cry has been a joy to sportsmen for centuries.

Less boisterous in the city or suburban home, the beagle's great popularity seems to indicate that, even there, its occasional bay, reminiscent of woods and autumn, is not unwelcome.

BALI NUISANCE

Before the war women in Bali used to consider themselves fully clothed if they wore just a sarong around their waists. But now the government of Indonesia frowns on such a state of nakedness and ladies are encouraged to wear blouses. And so the ladies do. But in Bali I don't think they have ever really discovered how and exactly where a blouse should be worn. Many girls seem to think if the blouse is worn just somewhere, then they have done their duty; round the ankle, strapped on the waist, or twisted round the head, these were favorite places for this patriotic blouse. Altogether I got the impression that the Balinese considered that this dressing-up business was all really a rather unnecessary concession to an unpleasant march of time.

Plunge Into the Stream of Consciousness Leaves the Visitor Perplexed but Hopeful

THE 11-YEAR-OLD art pupil had just completed an exercise in color. His work rested on a small taboret, drying. In it, irregular icicles of yellow straggled down from the top of the paper almost joining irregular forms rising from the bottom. In one section appeared a shaded splotch of blue. In another was a hazy patch of brown.

"It will probably fill his parents with horror," the instructor said, "but he and the others have to do it as one of their exercises. They must learn about color and the effect of one tone on another."

The boy wasn't horrified. He seemed quite satisfied with his effort. It even expressed a visual image to him. When you asked him what he had in mind as he did the exercise, he had an explanation.

"Well," he said, "you see this yellow coming down from the top? That's sort of like the things that hang down in caves. And over here, that blue, that could be a lake, with the brown a sort of brush patch. Look at it from this side and you may be able to see it more clearly."

If you had asked the boy how he had come to this analysis of his work, you were due for a little surprise. He wasn't inside a cave, looking out past the stalactites to a country scene. It had just occurred to him that the yellow icicles looked like stalactites and after that it seemed to him that the blue made a lake, the brown, a bush. In his way he was giving you a pictorial example of the stream of consciousness.

Not that he intended to produce a picture on that theme. His job was to find out something about color and the effect of one shade on another. But his explanation—and he could have thought up the answer only when he heard the question — did indicate some of the therapeutic value of painting and some of the impulse which probably goes into art.

IMPRESSIVE INFLUENCE

Something may have been in his mind which he tried to get down in color on paper. Eventually that might develop into a fairly impressive influence on the art which comes from inside the person and strikes a responsive chord in the people who view it. Or it might be a good way of getting something down on paper or canvas that has been in the painter's mind and is better defined in line. Perhaps the psychiatrist could explain that.

The lad probably didn't know it, but this discovery in a mass of color of a particular form was advocated by the Chinese painters of the 12th century. It was also a procedure recommended by Leonardo da Vinci who urged pupils to stare at a piece of wood, or other object, until the grain achieved an image.

At all events, the youngster was going through a process important to his art instructor and important to other teachers whose students showed their work at the Arts Centre last week.

Maybe he was exercising the right Jack Shadbolt claims for the artist. Any artist, Jack says, is entitled to express himself as he wishes in his own medium. That doesn't mean, though, that the artist can expect or demand appreciation from the public for the work he does.

The viewer's right of choice was permitted all who visited the school children's exhibition. Some of it was done by little ones in pre-primary and looked very much like the work of little ones in pre-primary. Some of it showed the beginnings of individualism. Quite a lot of it appealed to the layman's eye, both in form and color. And much of it showed imagination in a way to claim recognition.

Whether any of the young people will go on to achieve excellence is a question for informed critics.

But even if they don't, it seems obvious that they will be able to look at pictures more intelligently, will be more sensitive to that which is good and will enjoy a richer life because of the lessons they have taken.

That will be an important development in itself. It will help to create a climate more favorable to the growth of talent as it occurs in their community.—A.H.S.

As Our Readers See It

IT IS A SOUL

A question was asked at a Sunday night broadcast if the baby who was born with two heads would have two souls.

On looking this up in the Bible I found the answer at Genesis 2:7, where it states, "God formed man out of the dust of the ground, breathed into his nostrils the breath of life and man became a living soul." Comment.

It does not say God put a soul into the body but that the earth, together with the breath of life, became a soul, therefore the baby with two heads does not have even one soul. It is a soul.

FOLLOW THE BIRDS

Planning on returning to Saskatchewan via the United States, I dropped into the so-called "Tourist Bureau" desirous of obtaining some information on highway conditions. Instead of being told that they had no information, they inquired if I was a member. When I answered in the negative, I was flatly refused.

I understood that this office was partly supported by the Province of British Columbia and the city of Victoria. Was I misinformed?

At any rate, what an ingenious way to encourage one of Victoria's main sources of revenue, tourist trade! Perhaps I read it incorrectly, it must have been "Follow the birds out of Victoria." How else would one find his way out? Furthermore I advise the Tourist Bureau to add "Members Only" to its pompous inscription.

LIBRARY TRIBUTE

I am one of the many hundreds who use the Victoria Public Library, and consider ourselves fortunate to have such a good library.

True, it is small, but its quality is high. In saying this, I am not judging it by the presence or absence on its shelves of this or that book, but by standards gained from studying in libraries of many kinds—great national libraries, the Bodleian in Oxford, the British Museum, the Library of Congress, university libraries, Manchester, Yale, Columbia, civic libraries, N.Y. Public Library, Manchester Public Library, the Mitchell Library, Glasgow.

I use the Victoria Library steadily, and it interests me to find that many of the books, on all kinds of subjects, about which I read in the N.Y. Times, The Economist (London), the BBC's Listener, the Manchester Guardian and Toronto Saturday Night, later appear on the library shelves. What better guide could the library have in selecting its books than the considered criticisms of papers such as these? I have also found that the library is always glad to get suggestions from readers about new books, and to buy them when possible.

It must be a source of great satisfaction to the people of Victoria, when they think about it, that their Public Library has a standard above the parochial, and as far as funds permit, gives them the opportunity to read the books, classic, scholarly or popular, which are being read and discussed in the great world centres today.

FOR INCOME TAX DEDUCTIONS

As one who had bills of over $1,000 paid for by the Hospital Insurance Service last year, I should like to protest against the present suggestion of having the cost of hospitalization paid for by raising the 3 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent. Besides doing away with any insurance principles, it will make the scheme a socialistic venture.

I believe that if no premiums are paid then none of us in B.C. who have incurred hospitalization will be able to deduct the bills paid on our behalf from our income tax at the end of the year. I sought legal advice in this matter, and I am advised that unless a premium or registration fee of some kind is paid direct by an individual, he cannot claim the hospital bills paid by the service as an income tax deduction. This is going to mean a great deal to the people of this province, and is a point which should not be overlooked by the government when considering this change.

I, for one, am quite prepared, and would prefer, to pay premiums, for such an exemption meant a great deal to me on my income tax last year, when I had such heavy additional expenses.

It may be claimed that this bill will fall on industry, but let us not lose sight of the fact that the low-income groups, as well as the higher brackets, are going to suffer if we don't make some sort of a payment towards our hospitals.

Incidentally, I presume we will all receive a refund from the government of any prepayment, and I guess this will mean millions of dollars. I hope the government has this money and has not spent it.

'NOT ON BEER'

This letter has been prepared with the help of legal counsel to insure that it gives unbiased facts in an effort to clear up a lot of misunderstanding regarding the liquor question.

This is the question we voted on in June 1952:

"Are you in favour of the sale of spirituous liquors and wine by the glass in establishments licensed for such purpose?"

The term "spirituous liquors" refers ONLY to hard liquors such as whisky, brandy, gin, rum. It does NOT refer to malt liquors as beer, ale and stout. Reference to the Liquor Control Board or its annual report makes this point very clear. Therefore we voted on "hard" liquors and wine, not on beer. This is an important point because the new Liquor Act provides four types of outlets and beer, ale and stout are included in all of them.

Here they are:—

Beer Parlors (Beer, ale and stout)

Dining rooms (restaurants)—(Beer, ale, stout and wine)

Cabarets (public dances)—(liquor, all forms)

Cocktail bars (Liquor, all forms)

If we disapprove of any one of the outlets we have the privilege of asking for a vote. A vote (plebiscite) will permit us to say "yes" or "no" to EACH of the four outlets for the ballots will show four SEPARATE QUESTIONS.

The petition now being circulated provides the only means we have of expressing ourselves on this important subject for unless 35 per cent of the Voters on the Victoria Provincial Voters list sign the petition by the end of this week it is doubtful if we shall have another opportunity to vote in many years.

ALL THINGS CONSIDERED — By STUART KEATE

A Day in School

THERE is some understandable bitterness among local teachers about the stentorian blasts unleashed in the House the other day by the noted Saanich savant, J. Tidball Tisdalle, who sells used cars for a living.

I happened to drop into the teachers' lounge of Victoria High for a cup of coffee yesterday morning and inevitably the conversation drifted around to the Tisdalle epic. The teachers, to put it charitably, were unimpressed.

Keate

"We're not a 'progressive' school," one of them snorted. "In fact, a lot of those American schools would call us stuffy, or even reactionary.

"These public attacks are getting to be a little bit raw. It's about time we moved out and let the critics take over the classes."

★ ★ ★

Earlier in the morning I had been privileged to attend the school assembly with principal Harry Smith, who seems to have educated everybody in Victoria except Governor Douglas, Chief Maquinna and Amor de Cosmos. He began by reading a Lenten lesson from the Bible.

Later, he took me on a tour of the classrooms. "I'd like to show you what these youngsters are doing," he said.

In a grade 12 classroom we found some students wrestling with the intricacies of trigonometry. In the Frank T. Fairey technical wing, across the oval, we watched other boys building cabinets, studying elementary frame construction, and probing the innards of some ancient automobiles. In the stenographic classroom of Miss Bea Sutton (whose hair I used to dunk in the ink-wells), I paused briefly to give the girls a lesson in newspaper-style typing. (An early recovery is indicated.)

I'm afraid that this walk-around taught me more about Harry Smith than it did about the school—if the two are indivisible. I guess they are not. Mr. Smith still climbs the steps and opens the classroom doors as though he was viewing them for the first time, and the light that comes into his eyes when he does so is something to behold.

Frequently in his rounds he would stop to introduce a young teacher, putting his arm around him in a fatherly way and murmuring a few kind words (". . . a really fine scholar, this boy.") He seemed to know most of the 1,000 students by name. When a boy brought him a book, or spoke to him in the corridor, his look bespoke not only respect, but affection.

What does this prove? That a school, like a business—or even a government—derives its character from the men who run it. It remains, for all its brick and glass, the work of human hands, heart and head, and to indict the whole system in one sweeping effusion is to denigrate some very good citizens.

Harry Smith is due to retire next year—and goodness knows how he'll survive without his kids and his classrooms.

I imagine he's too much of an old pro to be upset by the latest schools-are-going-to-pot ukase. As I left his school yesterday he turned to me with a twinkle in his eye and (as is his fashion) quoted me a few lines from Browning's "Strange Medical Experience of Karshish":

"As when in certain travel I have feigned
To be an ignoramus in our art
According to some preconceived design,
And happened to hear the land's practitioners,
Steeped in conceit sublimed by ignorance,
Prattle fantastically on disease,
Its cause and cure—and I must hold my peace!"

★ ★ ★

(No, no, Mr. Tisdalle—Karshish is NOT the Ottawa photographer!)

VOICE OF BROADWAY — By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Such Interesting People

(Miss Kilgallen appears each Sunday night on "What's My Line"—KTNT-TV, Tacoma, at 7.30 p.m.).

NEW YORK—When she shops for winter coats, Shirley Booth actually prefers cloth to chinchilla, sable or broadtail. She has a feeling that fur is just not for her, and although she now and then wears her luscious new mink, she vows she never feels comfortable in it. In fact, she's looking forward to the day when she can use it as a lining for a lovely new cloth coat.

Dorothy

Rita Gam is the most tactful teetotaler you'll ever meet. She disguises her aversion to John Barleycorn by accepting one drink without comment, and pretending to sip, just to put the actual elbow-benders at their ease.

Movie menace Jack Palance is usually seen on the screen as a psychotic killer, but he is frequently on view in Central Park, chauffeuring a baby carriage. Away from the cameras, Palance, is gently polite even to people who mispronounce his name—and that's almost everybody! He softly informs them, "It's pronounced to rhyme with balance."

The Four Lads, chiefly famous for their hit record, "Istambul," are trying to work up a reputation as zanies as well as vocalists. In Reno, where they played the Golden Gate Hotel, they threw one of the better gaming rooms into a turmoil by riding in on burros, shouting that they were prospectors who had just struck it rich and demanding chips in exchange for their "gold dust."

MONEY NO OBJECT NOW

Eartha Kitt is a whizz with a needle, and even in Paris stitched up some gowns for herself that had the top couturiers making mental notes. Nowadays, of course, she can afford to order her frocks designed by the most expensive of dressmakers, but she still enjoys plying the needle.

Ginger Rogers is as absent-minded as she is animated. The best example occurred at a party not long ago when Ginger whooshed over to a famous Hollywood columnist and vivaciously greeted her by the first name of her bitterest writing rivel. (And Ginger, no novice in Flickerville, has known both ladies for simply years!) As soon as she'd done it she blushed, looked flustered and corrected herself, and the columnist sweetly pretended not to have heard her in the first place.

Eddie Fisher, intones some of his most exuberant arias while he pilots his Cadillac through the Manhattan traffic—especially when he spies an acquaintance ambling along the avenue. Eddie's convertible flips its lid, and so, of course, do all the startled pedestrians within carshot.

T. S. Eliot, so famous for his metaphysical poetry, is a rugged fellow in many ways once he puts down his delicate pen. His friends call him "Missouri Tom," and that's the way he signs his letters to them, and those who know him best cherish a hoard of anecdotes about his love for the elementary practical joke. For instance, he delights in outraging stuffy dowagers by leading them to chairs which give out with noises greatly resembling a Bronx cheer when the ladies sit upon them.

Some nights ago a cafe headliner was heard to say, "If I met the right man, I'd give up my career in a minute. It's security I want, not money." There's nothing so unusual about a girl voicing those sentiments, even on Broadway—except that this girl happened to be Christine Jorgensen.

Duke Ellington is probably the top-ranking gourmet in the jazz world, a fellow who can tell you just what epicurean dish to order in the Chinese place around the corner and how to find that great restaurant a little bit outside of Biloxi. He has one frustration, though, in the food department. For years he's been searching for pear ice cream. Hasn't found it yet, or even a whisper of it, but he keeps looking, and hoping.

$370,000 for New Buildings In Duncan

DUNCAN — An estimated $370,000 will be spent here in the next six months on various building projects.

Work began Monday on removing of topsoil from the lawn outside the city hall, which will be torn down shortly and replaced by a $65,000 building.

Construction of a $40,000 motel on the Trans-Canada Highway north of the city, for Eddie and Robert Evans, also got under way this week.

Other projects include a $16,800 forest ranger station, $18,000 United Church at Shawnigan Lake, completion of the $96,000 medical building in Duncan, bicycle sheds for Cowichan High School, a modern garage and service station at Crofton, a workshop for a logging firm south of Duncan, and a 2,600-square-foot extension to the Cowichan Creamery Association plant.

Inquiries have been received at the city hall from the Home Oil Company with regard to building a service station at the junction of the Trans-Canada Highway and Trunk Road.

One corner already is occupied by a service station, and it is understood a third oil company is interested in building on the remaining vacant corner.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

2 Hotels, 4 Shops Destroyed In $200,000 Winnipeg Blaze

WINNIPEG (BUP) — Two hotels and four small shops were destroyed today by a fire of unknown origin. The loss was expected to top $200,000.

The 10-hour overnight blaze forced 70 hotel guests out into nine below zero weather from the two adjoining hotel buildings in the downtown sections. All escaped from the Manitoba and Imperial Hotels without injury after a room clerk ran through the three-story Manitoba Hotel shouting: "Fire."

Also razed by the flames were a fur store, where the fire was believed to have started at the back of the Manitoba Hotel, the Commodore Restaurant, a barbershop and a jewelry store, all housed in the two hotel buildings.

The only casualty of the blaze was fireman Edmund Gray, who was overcome by the dense smoke. He was treated in hospital but later released.

More than 4,000 spectators lined Main Street in the early hours of the morning to watch firefighters battle the spectacular blaze, opposite the City Hall.

WHEAT PRICES SET

WINNIPEG (BUP)—The Canadian Wheat Board today set the domestic and export prices of amber durum wheat for last February, with a 79-⅜ cents differential per bushel.

W. C. McNamara, assistant chief commissioner, said No. 1 CW amber durum wheat would sell in Canada for $2.08-⅛ per bushel and for export at $2.87-½ per bushel, both on the basis of lakehead storage.

Meanwhile, board secretary C. B. Davidson denied reports that American wheat was under-selling Canadian wheat at Atlantic coast ports by 11 cents a bushel.

John D. Wilton, president of the Manitoba Federation of Agriculture, said the Canadian wheat was being undersold because of higher freight rates in this country between the grain-growing areas and the Atlantic ports.

Davidson said that there was a price differential between U.S. and Canadian wheat, but that was due to differences in grade and quality.

INDIAN BAN REMOVED

WINNIPEG (CP)—Manitoba Indians now can have a game of snooker like anybody else.

Until the current session of the provincial legislature pool-room doors were closed to Indians under a section of the Billiard and Poolroom Act.

A bill amending the act to remove the ban has been given royal assent by Lieutenant-Governor J. S. McDiarmid.

TO STAND TRIAL

CALGARY (CP) — Neaman Lindwall, accused of beating his 11-year-old son with a belt and rubbing salt into the wounds he inflicted, was committed Wednesday for Supreme Court trial.

Lindwall, charged specifically with assault occasioning bodily harm, was cautioned by Magistrate R. Verne Read against tampering with or influencing witnesses in the meantime. Bail was set at $1,000.

Roy Lindwall, victim of the assault, his nine-year-old brother, Merlin, and their mother testified against Lindwall at the preliminary hearing.

Police submitted a statement taken from Lindwall in which he admitted beating the boy and putting salt in his wounds.

The assault occurred early Sunday after Mr. and Mrs. Lindwall returned home to find that the two boys had broken a bed while playing.

Contrary to advice of his counsel, Lindwall insisted on giving testimony in his own behalf. He said Roy had caused trouble and branded him a liar. Lindwall said that before the beating he talked with the boy for an hour trying to convince him to tell the truth.

"He blamed everything on his brother so I told him something would have to be done," Lindwall said. Roy admitted to the court he had lied to his father.

The incident was brought to police attention when Roy and his brother, went to a welfare officer, who called authorities after examining the assault victim.

BAPCO-TIMES-SPONSORED SWIM CALLED OUTSTANDING PUBLICITY

Bapco-Times Victoria-Port Angeles swim by world champion Florence Chadwick next summer is "one of the most outstanding publicity efforts that has been achieved for Victoria in many years," Commissioner George I. Warren declared at Wednesday's annual meeting of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

"Florence Chadwick's scheduled attempt to swim the Straits already has attracted world wide attention," Mr. Warren said.

Finlayson Meets Resistance From Own Party on PGE Stand

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Party followers here of Progressive Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson have refused to support his stand on the Pacific Great Eastern extension from Squamish.

At a meeting of the North Vancouver Progressive Conservative Association Tuesday night, president Frank Giampa resigned after a stormy session.

In a press release last week, Mr. Finlayson called on the provincial government to investigate all possible routes for the extension, including Indian River, before going ahead with the work.

Association members voiced objection to a statement in the release which quoted them as being opposed to the Howe Sound route. Mr. Finlayson said he had full authority from four North Vancouver executive members for the release.

The release started a controversy during which Mr. Finlayson called for an apology from Jack Loutet, former Progressive Conservative member, because of criticism in the press.

Loutet refused to apologize, and said: "There are Conservatives who will not be dictated to by their leader when he makes deliberate false statements."

Ottawa Holds Silence On Security Screening

OTTAWA (CP)—The screening of government workers for security will continue to remain secret in Canada.

Acting prime minister Howe told Commons this Wednesday in refusing to reply to questions by Davie Fulton (PC, Kamloops).

Mr. Fulton asked for the names of the members of the government security panel, for details on the panel's set-up and operations and for figures on the number of civil servants dismissed.

"It is not in the public interest to answer these questions," Mr. Howe said.

"We all abhor McCarthyism, but so far we have been able to do a security job here without resorting to the kind of situation that arises in other countries."

Confusion of Authority Works Hardship on Indians

Life on an Indian reserve . . . as ward of the federal government . . . has its problems.

Confusion, brought about by the different administration of welfare cases concerning Indians on a reservation, and those living within the jurisdiction of municipalities and cities, has resulted in a series of protests from chiefs and councillors of the Saanich reserves.

Chiefs and councillors feel that it is up to the federal government to provide adequate aid for those in need on the reserves.

Most recent protest, stemming from the case of a widow, Mrs. Ignatius Pelkey, with seven children, charged the federal government with unfair treatment of welfare cases. Her husband was killed recently in a Saanich highway accident.

It was reported that the family of eight is living on $55 per month, $27 of which is family allowance.

An Indian affairs spokesman said he had no idea where this figure came from, since there is no "welfare money" provided for people in such a circumstance. However, he continued, these people are given a "relief ration."

DEPARTMENT PAYS

For instance, the spokesman explained, Mrs. Pelkey can purchase certain quantities of milk, meat, bread and other food each day for which the Indian Affairs Department pays the bill.

Because Mrs. Pelkey lives on a reserve, she is not eligible for social assistance provided by provincial and municipal governments.

If this case were within their jurisdiction, Mrs. Pelkey and her family of seven would be entitled to $122.50 social allowance, plus her family allowance.

This is the maximum allowance, said William Hoosen, director of welfare for Victoria, and is distributed as follows: $82.50 for food, $32 for shelter and $8 for clothing and sundry expenditures.

A spokesman for the Family Allowance branch said today that he knew nothing of a report stating that Mrs. Pelkey's family allowance had been reduced after the birth of her third child.

The fact that she receives only $27 for seven children was explained in this way: Mrs. Pelkey has registered five children, ranging in age from seven to one year and for these she receives the standard allowance of $27. The branch has no knowledge of two other children, one a baby of two weeks.

Skin blemishes on the face can be very embarrassing but they should never be scratched. Many skin troubles have a basic health cause and need medical attention.

Record Crowd Sees Trotters Strut Stuff

Presenting basketball at Memorial Arena for the first time Wednesday night proved to be a successful experiment for the Victoria Kinsmen Club as a crowd of 5,000 turned out to see the Harlem Globetrotters & Co. perform. The show included Boston Whirlwinds, Toledo Mercuries, Victoria Kins and a half-time vaudeville show. The crowd was a record for local basketball attendance.

Alberta Rink Passes Sternest Brier Test

Favored To Take 5th Title

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's rink in the Canadian curling championships has passed its stiffest competition without a defeat and appears on the road to bringing Alberta its fifth national curling crown.

In the six draws since the championships opened last Monday, the hometown rink, skipped by 24-year-old Matt Baldwin, has knocked over such rinks as Jimmy Welsh's Manitoba foursome, Saskatchewan's Campbell brothers from Avonlea, the Reg Piercy rink from Halifax, the Dr. W. L. MacDonald four from Charlottetown, Northern Ontario led by Don Groom, of Sudbury, and British Columbia, skipped by E. C. "Bung" Cartmell, of Vancouver.

If Alberta takes the crown, it will mark the 20th time in the 25 years that the championships have been played that the title has gone to Western Canada, and the fifth time Alberta has won it.

Manitoba has won the champoinships 14 times. The last was in 1953 when Ab Gowanlock took it with a rink from Dauphin, Man.

Baldwin got through two of his most crucial games Wednesday, defeating Northern Ontario 6-5 in the afternoon draw and getting British Columbia 11-8 in a night contest.

More than 12,000 persons, a record for the bonspiel, took in the two draws.

PERFECT DRAW SHOT

Baldwin's toughest match was against Groom's Sudbury crew and he won it with a perfect draw shot with the last rock of the game. With the score tied 5-5 going into the last end, Groom had two rocks nestled to one side and about six inches from the button, and a guard sitting just outside the 12-foot ring.

Baldwin's last rock eased around the guard and curled across the button and up against Groom's two stones, nudging them back to leave Alberta counting one.

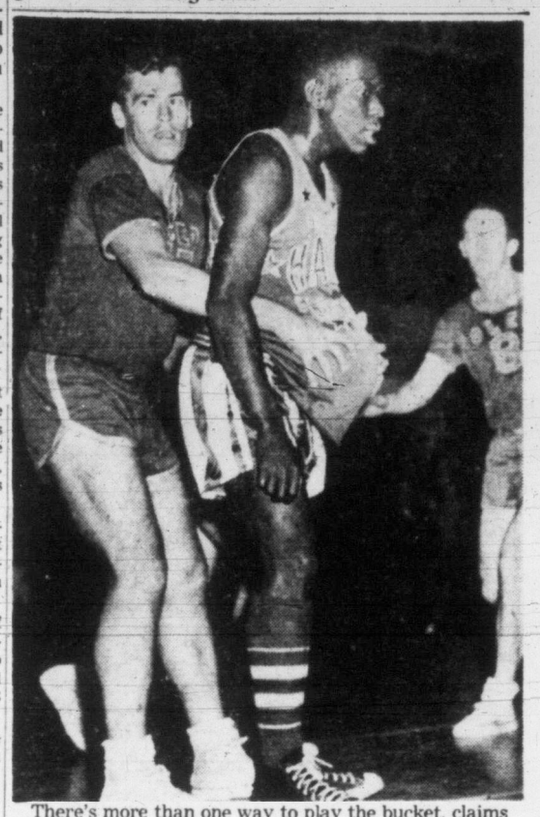
In the night draw, Baldwin and Cartmell teamed in a fine drawing duel. Alberta got the jump on B.C. when they counted three on the first end and three on the eighth.

With Alberta leading 8-4 on the ninth end, Cartmell had a chance to tie when his rink placed four rocks in the rings. Baldwin drew to the button with his last trick. But Cartmell's runner missed taking out the Alberta stone by a good four inches and Alberta counted one.

EASY COMPETITION

Baldwin now faces what the experts and observers consider relatively easy competition. He has yet to meet Newfoundland, which still needs its first victory in five starts; Ontario's Ross Tarlton rink from Hamilton, which has won three and lost two; Quebec's W. R. Tracy foursome from Arvida which has won two and lost four, and New Brunswick, skipped by R. T. McCully of Moncton, which won two and lost three.

Northern Ontario, Baldwin's closest competition with five victories and one loss, has yet to meet Saskatchewan which has won three and lost two; Nova Scotia's Reg Piercy rink from Halifax which has won two and lost three; Manitoba which has lost five and won one; and Prince Edward Island which has a 3-3 record.



There's more than one way to play the bucket, claims Harlem Globetrotters' zany Bobby Hall. Here Bobby demonstrates one of the lesser-known techniques of ball-handling, tucking the ball away under his shirt, much to the amazement of Toledo Mercuries' Ed Earle, left, and George Lindeman, right. (Times photos by Irving Strickland.)

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

EDMONTON—Curling may not be a spectator sport in the accepted sense of the term, but 5,000 loyal Edmontonians won't be convinced for many a day.

One shot, just one, by 27-year-old Matt Baldwin of Alberta in Tuesday's Macdonald Brier bonspiel play provided them with a thrill that will rarely be equalled in this or any other bonspiel.

The tremendous climax to a sensational match between Baldwin's Alberta (Edmonton) rink and Don Groom's Northern Ontario unit came on the last rock of the last end with Northern Ontario lying two and the score tied 5-5.

Walker

This was scheduled as, and was to be the crucial match of the Brier to date with Alberta and Northern Ontario unbeaten in four games as they took the ice.

Groom got off to a jump in the first end when he drew in for two, but Alberta came back to score one in the second, Groom drawing to an open house in the third for a 3-1 lead.

On the fourth end third Ray Cook of the Sudbury rink missed a costly take-out shot, the result enabling Baldwin to draw in for two to square the match.

Master Curlers Met Head-On

Alberta got a break in the fifth end when Groom committed one of his few mistakes, missing a take-out on the last rock. Baldwin had drawn in to the four-foot ring on his last rock, the sixth end was blank as Groom rolled out on a take-out with last rock. Northern Ontario squared the game on the seventh end, but Baldwin, who had curled spectacularly in this year's Brier, drew to an open house in the eighth for a 5-4 Alberta margin.

The ninth and 10th ends were blank, but only because Cook of Northern Ontario split a two-rock guard of Alberta's brilliantly to take out shot rock. Again Cook rose to the occasion as Glenn Gray drew to the button and the house was clear when Groom attempted to draw in, only to be short. Alberta adopted defensive measures in the 11th end but Groom was equal to the task. He knotted the count at 5-5 by chipping off Baldwin's shot rock when Baldwin's attempted guard was wide by inches.

Then came the climax and hardly a person at rink-side was seated as Northern Ontario got a well-guarded shot by Cook in the back of the house. Gray then drew in to the four-foot rings, but was taken out by Groom who in turn was taken out by Baldwin. Groom's last rock chipped off an Alberta rock to set up a near perfect guard and Northern Ontario was lying two as Baldwin stepped into the hack.

With the 1954 Brier tankard conceivably resting on this one shot, Baldwin appeared too heavy as the rock crossed the hog line. But in the final few feet (fatal feet for Northern Ontario), Baldwin's rock curled dramatically into the guard rock and chipped off to the button. A tremendous roar greeted the Alberta victory and a standing ovation was given Baldwin.

Buna Stung By Alberta Power

In the meantime the B.C. rink was remaining in contention by defeating Quebec in a see-saw battle. But that was in the afternoon. For in the evening Bung Cartmell got a taste of the Alberta power and went down to an 11-8 defeat. Always behind, Cartmell rallied strongly in the seventh to score two and trail 5-4. Baldwin drew in to score three in the eighth and added to his lead in the ninth when Cartmell's hard running shot missed by the barest fraction of an inch in chipping Baldwin's well-hidden shot rock. If Cartmell had been successful, he would have scored three probably, but he didn't and there seemingly died B.C.'s hopes as it was Cartmell's second loss and Alberta's sixth win.

As the Brier swung into it's final two days today, Alberta appeared a lead-pipe cinch to take the title, all their toughest matches were behind them while Northern Ontario still had to meet Saskatchewan (3-2) Manitoba, (1-5) who haven't got untracked since the event started, Nova Scotia and P.E.I.

Alberta's remaining schedule was against winless Newfoundland, Ontario, Quebec, and New Brunswick.

Manitoba Embarrassment Felt

Off the first three day's play it doesn't appear likely that Alberta can be headed off in their quest for the Brier tankard. However, the most obvious and amazing disappointment has been the Manitoba rink which has won only one game, and feelings were so hurt all the way back in Winnipeg, that a telegram was received by Scotty Harper of the Free Press, suggesting that he return home today. Intervention on Scotty's behalf was made by the assembled scribes and radio men here and enabled Scotty to get a reprieve. Surely Winnipeg will never live that one down. The other members of the fifth estate here in the hinterlands will see to that.

It's difficult to believe, too, coming from the fledgling curling centre that we do, that the game commands such a tremendous interest. More than 10,000 persons flocked to the Edmonton Gardens for Wednesday's draws and if Alberta does happen to engage in another seemingly "crucial" match or be forced into a playoff, which is also yet possible, we'll wager our red flannels (now discarded) that even standing room will be at a premium.

HOLMAN BLACK-BALLED FOR HOOP 'FIX' HASSLE

NEW YORK (UP) — Nat Holman, famed basketball coach of City College of New York, was found guilty today of "conduct unbecoming a teacher and neglect of duty" by the Board of Higher Education.

The board, after ruling on the charges which arose from the "fixing" scandal in which seven members of the CCNY basketball team were implicated, then voted that Holman "be dismissed" from the faculty "unlesss within 30 days he files an application for service retirement."

The action by the board, which is the governing body of all colleges operated by the city of New York, came as somewhat of a surprise since on Feb. 25 a special trial committee appointed by the board voted, 2-1, for Holman's exoneration.

Colorful Prep Tourney Hogs Sports Spotlight

The fourth annual Vancouver Island High School Basketball Tournament at Victoria High School Friday and Saturday is expected to be one of the most colorful and well-balanced tourneys ever held here.

Eight teams, including defending champion Alberni, are entered and play is scheduled to get under way Friday afternoon at 1 and continue through to Saturday night at 9.

All schools entered this year are reportedly strong and should give the favorites a stiff battle.

ADDED SPICE

In addition, most up-Island schools and all local schools will have cheer leaders on hand and the Victoria High School Majorettes will provide extra colorful entertainment.

Alberni is again favored to capture the title, having won their last nine contests after getting away to a slow start this season. However, Victoria High School, undefeated in inter-high play this year, and Esquimalt High Dockers are expected to give the club a good run for the honors.

Courtenay High School is also stronger this year, holding two decisions over Oak Bay in previous exhibition games, and could be a dark horse entry.

Laurie Veitch, winner of the Times Trophy last year for being judged the most valuable player of the tourney, will not be in action. He has graduated to senior ranks and is now seeing action with Alberni senior A men.

Two all-star clubs will be named following completion of the tourney, and the most valuable player selection will be made then. Times awards will be given to player selected to the all-star team.

Several individual players, off past records, will present a strong threat to capture the most valuable award.

Ed Crabbe and Ed Pedersen of Victoria High have been having good seasons, as has Alberni's Gerry Knowles. Mike Lowry, Garry Gilbert and Gerry Harris are expected to provide the spark for Esquimalt, while Jack Showers and Merlin Hawes have been the Oak Bay mainstays.

Stars from other Up-Island schools have not been in local competition, to any extent, but could definitely be in the running for top laurels.

EAGLETTES TAKE LEAD

Victoria Eaglettes took a three-point lead in a two-game total-point series for the Vancouver Island juvenile girls' basketball title Wednesday night by besting Alberni Athletics, 26-23, at Victoria High School gym.

Bev Koski paced the winners with 13 points, while I. Rader topped Alberni with 11 points.

The next game will be played at Alberni on Friday night.

LI'L LEAGUE BASEBALL ADDS AMERICAN LEAGUE

Eight teams are scheduled to compete in two divisions in Victoria's Little League baseball this season.

Two separate sections have been established, The National League, formed last year, and the American League, which will be in operation for the first time this season.

Frank Moxam has been named president of the newly-formed American League. Harry Holmes is vice-president; Bob Copley secretary, and Ron Elderton, treasurer.

A meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce board room, Black Ball Building, tonight at 7.30.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

Holdout Vernon May Be Sold by Senators

ORLANDO, Fla. (UP)—Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators was expected to reach a decision today on whether to go through with his threat to trade American League batting champion Mickey Vernon to the Boston Red Sox.

Manager Bucky Harris hinted that Griffith would make his mind up within the next 24 hours when he discussed the possibilities of the Senators' lineup should Vernon be traded. Harris included only one left-handed hitter, shortstop Pete Runnels, in the tentative lineup.

★ ★ ★

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP)—Ted Williams, still optimistic over his chances to open the American League season for the Boston Red Sox, seemed convinced today his most difficult problem will be reducing his weight.

Williams, who suffered a broken collarbone last Monday, revealed that he weighs 220 pounds—20 more than his regular playing weight. The 6-foot 4-inch slugger will be unable to take wind sprints for three weeks and unable to swing a bat for six. Ted, incidentally, has left the Red Sox Camp for Miami, Fla., with Fred Corcoran, his business manager.

★ ★ ★

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Shortstop Phil Rizzuto, Luke Appling's successor as baseball's "Mr. Aches and Pains," surprised the New York Yankees today with the announcement that he "feels great."

"No ulcers and no arm trouble, the 35-year-old sparkplug enthused. "It feels great to begin working without worries or aches."

★ ★ ★

TAMPA, Fla. (UP) — General manager Gabe Paul asserted today that the Cincinnati Redlegs had no intentions of trading infielder Grady Hatton to the Chicago White Sox.

Paul said a report that the Redlegs would send Hatton to the White Sox to ease their third base problem is "positively unfounded.

★ ★ ★

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UP) — Outfielders George Shuba and Bill Antonello hoped today to profit from batting instructions given them by a fellow once regarded as the "most hated man in Brooklyn."

None other than Bill Terry—who as manager of the New York Giants once asked the celebrated quesiton, "Is Brooklyn still in the league?"—told Shuba and Antonello most slumps are caused by overstriding and worked with both during yesterday's workout.

★ ★ ★

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP) — Willie Mays, the New York Giants' effervescent centrefielder, wasted no time when offered his 1954 contract.

Mays, who reported to the Giants after a two-year hitch in the army in spectacular fashion last Tuesday, signed Wednesday without even looking at the sum he was offered. It was reported to be $13,000.

"You tell me to sign and I sign," Mays told manager Leo Durocher.

"Sign," said Leo.

★ ★ ★

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP) — Manager Eddie Joost tabbed Vic Power today as the Philadelphia Athletics' regular right fielder.

Power, obtained from the New York Yankees during the winter after leading the American Association in batting, slammed a towering home run over the left field fence during his first workout Wednesday.

BUTTON GOLF

Royal Colwood Golf Club's Bill McColl and Vic Painter are scheduled to make their first defense of the city senior golf buttons when they meet the challenge of Joe Pryke and Jack Clark of Gorge Vale at Gorge Vale Sunday.

Tee-off time is 1 p.m.

BUMPER CROWD

As Usual—Trotters Draw' Em, Wow'Em

Boston 63, Victoria 36; Globetrotters 67, Toledo 64

Four thousand six hundred and ninety-nine.

Savor that number, chew it and swallow it, because there may never be another one to match it.

That is the exact number of paying fans who trooped into Memorial Arena Wednesday night to see the biggest, most colorful basketball show ever to hit these parts.

When the Victoria Kinsmen Club went out on a limb to the extent of booking the Harlem Globetrotters, Boston Whirlwinds and Toledo Mercuries into Memorial Arena, club officials hoped to entice 3,000 fans to the games. Anything less than that number might cause financial mortification.

But Victoria fans, who make it a regular habit to stay away from basketball games, reversed their field and turned out in a number that was, needless to say, a new record for basketball attendance in Victoria.

Nor did any of the 4,699 (plus the additional 300 who got in an passes) go home disappointed.

Victoria Kins met Bill Spivey and the Boston Whirlwinds in the first game and, as was to be expected, Boston had little trouble winning, 63-39.

After that the crazy, mixed-up Globetrotters alternated tomfoolery with basketball and came out with a 67-64 win over Toledo Mercuries in a game that wasn't quite as close as the score might indicate.

VAUDEVILLE, TOO

In between these goings-on, fans were treated to a first-class vaudeville show featuring French unicyclist Jacques Cordon, who can do a Charleston while riding his one-wheeled bike around the top of a small table. Co-starring with the French entertainer was Ray Wilbert and his hoops. This gentleman does things with a painted bicycle wheel rim that would bulge the eyes of a statue.

And local fans got something to cheer sincerely about when Kins' Howie Tooby beat three other competitors, one from each of the touring teams, in a free-throw contest. Two-hand shooting Howie canned 13 in a row to win a trophy and a tidy little purse.

If an extra fillip was needed on the well-rounded program, it was referee Gene Moyer, who travels with the club. The chunky official has a voice like a logger and calls his fouls with flowery language like, "No, no—you can't climb all over him."

Kins' Johnny Clark did himself right proud in the first game as he flipped in a neat 19 points against the checking of Bill Spivey and Pete Darcy. Clark will be able to tell his grandchildren that he outscored the great, 7-foot All-American Spivey, who canned 14 points with his phenomenal touch under the basket, hooking, tapping in rebounds and re-routing stray shots into the hoop.

Hilarious Bobby Hall, Rookie Brown and Johnny Klein stole the show for the Trotters with their clowning, shooting and wizard ball-handling.

However, Mercuries' balding George Lindeman probably turned in the neatest chore of pure basketball during the evening, hitting for 14 points.

WILL CINDERELLA STORY COME TRUE?

By OSCAR FRALEY

Paddy Seeks Glass Slipper

NEW YORK (UP) — A fighter who figures to be a "soft touch" is determined today to hammer out another Cinderella story of the ring.

The odds are 4 to 1 that Paddy De Marco can't pull it off when he challenges Jimmy Carter for the lightweight title at Madison Square Garden on Friday night. Paddy just laughs, a bit grimly, and points into the past.

The "soft touches" have come through before.

Like Jimmy Braddock, an "old man" off the docks, who won the heavyweight championship in a resounding upset against Max Baer. Like Jake Lamotta, "washed up" and having trouble making the weight, who beat Marcel Cerdan for the middleweight crown. And like old Jersey Joe Walcott, expected to take a third whipping, who finally nailed flitting Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight mantle.

All of that comeback breed, you say, packed a knockout punch which enabled them to do an up-setting job. De Marco, on the other hand, is not a knockout puncher. But that doesn't bother Paddy.

"I've never worked so hard for a fight," he explains. "I know that if I'm in shape I can set a pace he can't keep up with. I'm going to stay on top of him every minute. Everybody he has fought did it from outside. That gave him a chance to tee off. He won't get that kind of a shot at me because he'll be too busy."

Brash talk from a "soft touch," which is the only reason De Marco got his shot at Carter. Because it is no secret along the fight beat that Paddy was picked by Carter's camp on that theory. They thought he would be an easy opponent.

De Marco was supposed to be slowing up after 10 years of fighting. Four or five years ago, when Paddy was hot, nobody wanted any part of him and he never got a title shot. But now, the Carter camp figured, De Marco wasn't much of a risk. He was slowing down and anyhow, it was argued, he couldn't hurt Carter if he did hit him.

"They've got me all figured out," Paddy says with bitter determination. "I'm only 26 and he's 30 and I'm the old man.

"I've lost only 11 fights in my career and Carter has lost 16, yet I'm finished and he's supposed to be coming on.

"I lost six fights in the past two years," he added, "five of them on split decisions which I figure I won against the best lightweights in the country — guys Carter won't even fight—and I'm a bum.

"Well," the kid from Brooklyn insists through tight lips, "I've waited 10 years for this shot and if I lose I know I'll never get another chance. I'll tell you one thing, it will be a real fight."

Yorks Clobber Finns In Biggest Scoring Spree

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Toronto East York took another giant step toward winning the world hockey title for Canada when they pulverized Finland 20-1 at the championship tournament today. It was the biggest scoring spree of the tournament to date.

Canada's fifth straight victory gave them 10 points and kept them in a first-place tie with Russia's undefeated Moscow Dynamos, idle today.

Canadian stock soared even before today's debacle when the Russians took only a 4-2 decision over the winless Swiss club while the Yorks breezed to a 8-1 victory over Germany. Czechoslovakia, also idle today, is two points behind Russia and Canada.

Moe Galand, former Stratford and Oshawa player in the Ontario Hockey Association's junior A series, scored seven goals for the Canadians. John Petro of Toronto was next with four. Both were members of the original East York team which went overseas and later was bolstered by goalie Don Lockhart and three other players.

Other Canadian scorers were Bill Shill, former National Hockey Leaguer with Boston Bruins, with three; and Bob Kennedy, Tommy Campbell, Vic Sluce, Normie Gray, John Scott and Eric Unger, one each.

Other games today matched Switzerland and Norway and Sweden against Germany.

The Swiss, easy prey for Canada and Czechoslovakia earlier in the tournament, gave the Dynamos a bad time Wednesday. They disrupted the Russians' pattern-passing attack and forced them to resort to individual rushes.

After two unassisted tallies by Dynamo ace Vsivolod Bobrov put Russia in front, the fighting Swiss hemmed in their opponents with a sustained drive that left the leaders rattled and disorganized.

LITTLE DIFFICULTY

By contrast, the Canadians had little difficulty handling the equally aggressive Germans. Held off the score sheet for the first 14 minutes, East York then scored twice before the intermission, added two more goals without a reply in the second and ran wild in the finale to match the eight-goal output they have managed in every game thus far.

The only minor flaw came in the third frame when Rudolf Weide managed a tally for the losers, the second shot to elude goalie Don Lockhart since the tournament began.

Right-winger Moe Galand, a consistent East York marksman, scored three goals Wednesday. Johnny Petro added two and Bob Kennedy, Russ Robertson and Bill Shill completed the total.

BIG NIGHT TONIGHT

Blues Still Alive As Race Tightens

New York 3, Toronto 3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thursday could be a night of decision in the see-saw battle for playoff positions in the National Hockey League.

Four of the five teams still in the running for post-season berths see action tonight. The first-place Detroit Red Wings entertain second-place Toronto and the third-place Montreal Canadiens visit the Boston Bruins, currently tied with New York for the fourth and last playoff spot.

Detroit needs only a tie to be certain of being in the hunt for the Stanley Cup. Toronto and Montreal also are near certainties but their tussle is for second place and the right to meet the fourth-place team in the semifinal round.

The real battle is between New York and Boston. The New Yorkers moved into a tie for fourth place Wednesday night by tying Toronto 3-3 on captain Don Raleigh's hat trick. Boston will be out to break the deadlock tonight with a win over Montreal.

FAVORED FOR PLAYOFFS

The Bruins still are favored to take fourth place since they have played two fewer games than the Rangers. Their record of four wins, one draw and one loss against Montreal in Boston this year also makes them favorites to win tonight's game.

The Maple Leafs, who took a one-point lead over Montreal in the race for second place by tying New York Wednesday night, will be aiming for their first goal on Detroit ice this season when they go against the Red Wings.

The Vezina trophy battle also will highlight the Detroit-Toronto meeting. Harry Lumley of Toronto saw his average drop to 1.77 Wednesday night as the Rangers beat him for three goals. Terry Sawchuk of Detroit will go into the game with a 1.72 average.

In addition to the Detroit jinx on scoring, Lumley will be hampered by two injuries suffered in Wednesday night's game. He was bruised badly on the knee in the first period, and after returning to the net, was struck over the left eye by a shot from Doug Bentley in the third period. He needed 10 stitches to close the gash.

Lower Island Booters Facing Heavy Action

Five league and four exhibition games are carded for this week-end at local parks by the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association.

First-place Eagles will meet Black & White Taxi at Lower Beacon Hill Park Saturday in a third division match. In the fourth division Gorge Way, in second place and improving greatly, will meet Esquimalt Meat Market, which has not recorded a win this half, at Lansdowne Park Saturday.

Other Saturday games will bring together Shepherd's Dairy and Combines at Hollywood Park in a fifth division league fixture, Heaney's and Eagles' 5th at Upper Beacon Hill Park in an exhibition match.

All Saturday games start at 1.

Undefeated in second-half play and sharing leadership in the junior division with Victoria College, Tillicum Athletic Club will meet Combine Juniors Sunday at 1 at Lower Beacon Hill Park.

Second half honors will be awarded the winner of the Eagles vs. ANAF Vets First Division game at Windsor Road at 2.30 Sunday. They are sharing top honors in this division's second-half schedule.

Exhibition games carded for Sunday are:

Canadian Scottish vs. Victoria College, at 2, Lansdowne Park; Sidney Sports Club vs. Salt Spring Island, at 2, Sidney Memorial Park, and Mic Mac's vs. Langford, at 1, Windsor Road.

Hampden Park, famous soccer ground in Glasgow, can accommodate 150,000 spectators.

VIC HIGH KEEPS LEAD

Mount View Gains In Senior Prep Soccer

Only one goal was scored as four teams saw action in the inter-high school senior soccer league Wednesday.

Mount View High School netted the only counter to defeat Esquimalt, 1-0, and take over second place in the league. Victoria High and Oak Bay High battled to a scoreless deadlock, the second successive contest in which the two teams have failed to reach a decision.

Mount View is now two points back of the league-leading Victoria High and one up on Oak Bay. Esquimalt is in last place, two points back of Oak Bay.

Victoria High can clinch the title with at least a draw against Mount View in its final game and claim a spot in the Colonist Cup series. The second-place school will also move into the final.

Esquimalt held a good share of the play throughout the contest at Esquimalt but Abtar Singh scored the only goal midway through the first half to give Mount View the victory.

SAFER MOTORING

Racing Cars Rebuilt To Protect Driver

INSTALMENT 26

In a stock car race you will see frightful crashes, and day after day drivers of the Joey Chitwood show wreck cars and emerge unhurt, for these reasons:

Roof and sides of the body do not collapse. They are reinforced in a manner that should be found in every car that leaves the factory.

The windshield is removed. Only one car, the Kaiser, has a pop-out windshield that will go on its way before it can crush a passanger's head.

Doors are welded shut. All production cars should have a bolt that locks the door rigid as soon as the car starts to move. It would not be difficult.

The seat, after being placed in position, is welded to the car. All that is required is a good mounting instead of the bent, thin, sheet metal found in most production cars. If you do not believe this, shake the back of your own bench type seat — but not hard enough to incur a repair bill.

Smashed on Road

Race and exhibition drivers wear safety belts. Very few people would be killed if they could stay put, instead of being hurled through windshields or open doors to be smashed up on the road.

I suppose the law will intervene and require that anyone driving without a proper safety belt be punished, just as a driver is punished today for not having proper lights or brakes.

It would be so easy for a manufacturer to fit a padded panel on telescopic shocks to the instrument panel that would hold the passengers in place in the event of an accident.

From a safety point of view I prefer the small, light car of a type in which everything is welded into a unit, and which has a solid belly pan to give underside protection and provide a substantial mounting for seats.

They are more nimble for dodging, the brakes usually are more effective, and a shorter distance is required to stop. If you do have a collision with a big car, the chances are that you will bounce off, and at least will not be responsible for injury to the occupants of the bigger car.

Courtesy Required

In regard to pedestrians, good sportsmanship solves a lot of difficulties, and a courteous motorist and considerate pedestrian have little trouble.

As is the case with natural selection, one would think the bull-headed, jay-walking pedestrians would get killed, and the horn-blasting motorists would lose their licenses and become pedestrians.

However, some of the tragedies today come from parents permitting their children to play in the street when a playground is only a block away.

Others are caused by unthinking persons wearing dark clothes crossing between blocks on rainy nights. If they knew how they terrify a motorist, out of kindness to him they would throw a white scarf around their necks, or wear some other article of light clothing that would show up in headlights.

Many Gadgets

From time to time, and usually coincident with the public having money to spend, the market is flooded with gadgets for the car. We will discuss a few—pro and con.

First, there is a piece of pipe with two springs attached, one at each end, and a loose, sliding piece of heavy shaft inside. It is claimed to prevent skidding on corners.

The National Safety Council tried it out with exhaustive tests in which the device could be made operative or inoperative by a passenger without the knowledge of the driver.

After 74 runs on which the drivers' statements as to whether the device was in operation were correct only 51 per cent of the time, and 25 per cent of them admitted they were just guessing, it was concluded that the tests failed to prove anything. This treasure costs about $40.

For slippery surfaces, there is no doubt of the value of tires with sawdust imbedded in the tread rubber.

There is an English tire called "wire sales" with small coil springs within so that a sharp steel point is at the tread surface. When the rubber is compressed on the ground, hundreds of these sharp ends protrude and dig into the road. They are extremely effective.

Prevent Spinning

Differentials which may be bought to replace the standard bevel-gear type prevent one wheel from spinning on a slick spot, and are a great help if one wheel is on a dry surface and the other on ice. They also improve the high-speed handling of a car. In normal driving around corners they allow one wheel to run faster, so no extra tire wear is caused.

Gas saving devices are with us always. Most gas savers, and especially those that promise 40 miles per gallon plus an increase in speed and horsepower, are fakes for the simple reason that power and economy in an engine come from design. Unless this is changed, no gadget is better than a good carburetor overhaul with an analysis of the exhaust gas.

STATIC REDUCED

Among new products growing in popularity are chemicals sold under various brand names, which when sprayed on seat covers cut down materially on static electricity. These, together with ground straps, should make driving more comfortable this year.

WHY CHANGE OIL

Gradual Chemical Action Caused By Air, Metals

Following observance on oil changes represents an opinion held generally by oil engineers. It was drawn from information supplied by Victor Griffin, Valvoline Oil Company representative in Victoria, and is the third of a short series of articles.

Under normal operating conditions, oil undergoes gradual chemical changes in contact with air and the metals in the engine. These changes result in the development of products which in time may cause damage to bearings, cylinder walls, wrist pins, and other delicately finished surfaces in the engine, if such contaminated oil is allowed to remain in the crankcase for too long a period.

Chemical changes leading to the development of these contaminating substances are accelerated by the presence of the contaminating substances themselves, in exactly the same way that one rotten apple in a barrel soon leads to the destruction of the remaining good fruit. Accumulation of these contaminants, either in the oil itself or as deposits in crankcases or oil filters, seriously endangers the stability of the lubricant.

Protracted use of lubricating oil frequently results in the development of non-lubricating substances which increase engine drag, promote excessive carbon formation, varnish and lacquer deposits, and may cause stuck rings, corrosion of alloy bearings, clogged oil screens, and, ultimately, total failure of the lubricating system and ruinous damage to the engine.

The amount of these various contaminants in crankcase oil depends upon the distance or time a car is operated, and upon operating conditions. As the quantity of these substances in crankcase oil can be determined only by laboratory analysis (a procedure that is not practical for the average car owner), the safest method of assuring engine protection and efficiency is to drain oil at sufficiently frequent intervals to prevent dangerous contamination.

Handy Twist

Here's a little trick that costs nothing and can improve your car's performance: Every few weeks give the spark plug caps a twist or two. This will help keep the contact surfaces clean and improve sparking.

Insurance Applicants Checked

By PETE LOUDON

Hard-to-get insurance works almost as hard a penalty on a driver as suspension of his license, Motor Vehicle Branch officials point out.

Times enquiries have revealed that complete files on B.C. drivers' behavior are available to automotive insurance companies at any time. For $2 anyone can have a search made of any B.C. license holder's history.

If the search your insurance company pays for discloses that you are an accident repeater, you've got trouble.

The individual company may wash its hands of you.

If this happens your application can be referred to the Assigned Risk Board. This body is made up of representatives of all car insurance dealers working in the province.

Persons who are considered too old or too young to be a good risk, or who are unknown in this province as to driving habits, may find their applications routed to the AR Board too.

The board sets a premium specially geared to fit the circumstances, or may reject you in any event. If accepted at an increased premium, you will be assigned to a company for coverage. The company normally must accept a board decision, but can appeal.

One bright spot . . . the department points out that only one driver in ten is an accident repeater, and keeping them off the roads will help to bring down insurance rates for the careful driver.

Clock Failure

There are a variety of reasons why your electric auto clock may not run even if the clock itself is in good condition. Here are points to check: Blown fuse, faulty battery, wires improperly connected. Have these points looked at before starting on the clock mechanism.

BUSINESS CAPSULE

By E. McLEAN, Times Business Editor

Chicago Industrialist Envies His Canadian Counterparts

Canadians should be the happiest businessmen in the world, International Harvester's president, John L. McCaffery, Chicago, said today in Montreal.

Canada's future is "extremely bright and promising" and she steadily is moving toward "a balanced economy," Mr. McCaffery told the Canadian council of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Canadian businessmen should be the happiest in the world, he said, because Sir Wilfrid Laurier's prediction of 50 years ago that "the 20th century is Canada's—is coming true at an astonishing rate.

Canada's "amazing growth" up until now has been mainly in the field of raw material production. But there are sharp signs a new sort of economy is developing in Canada. A third of Canada's farmers moved to the cities during the last 20 years to become engaged in manufacturing and service industries.

Urban residents now total 61.6 per cent of Canada's people, indicating this country is following the same course as the U.S. where urbanites constitute 74 per cent of the population.

Category by category, Mr. McCaffery read the roll of Canada's economic advancements. It is, he said, a record of accomplishment of which any one well could be proud and a sure indication of future growth and development.

When General Electric splits its stock in line with the proposal of directors it will have 86,537,808 shares outstanding, second only to General Motors with 88,313,017 shares.

That General Electric total would bring the top ten listed issues on Wall Street to an aggregate total of 477,352,862 shares—more shares than were listed for the entire market before 1927, the first year the total crossed a half billion shares.

That top ten includes in addition to General Motors and General Electric such issues as Standard Oil (N.J.), Du Pont, American Telephone, Socony-Vacuum, Standard of California, Union Carbide, Texas Co., and U.S. Steel.

STOCK EXCHANGE SUMMARIES

Western Oils Swing Widely

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in moderate trading toward the close of today's stock market session.

Industrial losses and gains were in balance with most changes small as papers, steels, foods and manufactures led a lower trend.

Western oils were mixed as prices moved within a wide range. Merrill added 45 cents and Central Leduc was up 40, but Jasper dropped $1.40 in active trading.

Golds were lower despite some senior strength. Both juniors and holding companies had wide majorities of losses although most price changes were moderate.

Base metals were lower in all categories with Manitouwadge-area issues the weakest as Geco led downward with a $1 drop.

Uraniums and Bathurst-area base metals were lower as Algom led uraniums down, dropping 25 cents, and New Larder U was off 11 cents to reach a new low $1.

Rails and Oils Lead Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced today with railroads and oils providing the inspiration for the rise.

Prices went from around a point lower to between one and two points higher.

Oils and chemicals were higher almost from the first, and then railroads advanced.

Canadian stocks gave a mixed appearance. Leading the stocks higher was McIntyre, up ½. It was followed by Canadian Pacific, up ⅜ and Dome Mines, ahead ⅛. Lower were International Nickel, Hiram Walker and Distillers Seagram, each down ¼.

Giant Yellowknife, Canadian issue on the American stock exchange, fell ⅛.

Sharp Gains

A 30-cent gain by Central Leduc and a 25-cent advance by Del Rio featured active trading in oil shares on Vancouver stock exchange this forenoon. Central Leduc, Merrill Pete and Canadian Collieries also advanced sharply. Other oils were unchanged to slightly lower.

Del Rio moved forward to $2 on 13,300-share volume but slipped back to 1.86 bid, 1.95 asked just before noon.

Van-Tor gained 2 cents, to 36, on 10,000 shares. Noon quotations was 34-35.

Central Leduc soared 30 cents from the first sale at 1.95. Forenoon volume was 3,700 shares. Noon quotation: 2.20-2.25.

Merrill advanced to 6.95, from 6.30, on 2,300-share volume. Noon quotation: 6.70-6.75.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Barley received the most action as prices continued to move narrowly today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat overnight were confined to 600,000 bushels to Japan.

Prices for the top grades of Class Two wheat dropped ⅛ cent from Wednesday except Class Two durums which were unchanged.

NEWCASTLE DISEASE OUTBREAK STAMPED OUT ON SAANICH FARM

Newcastle Disease which killed 5,000 birds on the poultry farm of A. E. Goodwin, Holland Avenue, Saanich, last December, has been stamped out, W. F. Macdougall, federal veterinary inspector, reported today.

Mr. Macdougall said the poultry disease no longer existed on the farm and the quarantine imposed on the premises had been lifted.

Meanwhile, Mr. Goodwin is pressing for compensation from the federal government, which has declined to pay on the grounds the birds were not vaccinated against the disease.

Lydia Arsens Denies MLAs Seek Pay Hike

'Circular' Sought Small Reimbursement For Rural Members, Says Victoria MLA

Mrs. Lydia Arsens (SC, Victoria) was denying the existence of any petition for an increase in sessional indemnities in the legislature Throne Speech debate Wednesday when she was interrupted.

"I signed one," said Dr. Larry Giovando (PC, Nanaimo).

"Oh, no, you didn't," retorted Mrs. Arsens vehemently.

Then she proposed to tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth" about the matter.

It wasn't a petition, she said, but a piece of paper by way of a poll, with names on it, soliciting opinion regarding a "much-needed increase for expenses incurred unavoidably."

She said newspaper stories had alleged legislators were signing a petition to boost salaries from $3,000 to $5,000. But such a suggestion was erroneous, she said.

It was a "little circular," she said, to see if there was money enough available to help out "the gentlemen in the rural ridings."

There had been talk, she said, of $500, "or even $2,000, if there is enough money."

SHE SIGNED, TOO

Mrs. Arsens admitted she had signed the little paper, poll or circular "because I wouldn't selfishly keep others back who I knew needed it."

"We who can live at home during the session save quite a sum."

She said she aimed to clarify the situation, "clear the air and withdraw that dark cloud" which has been hanging over the house.

She does not believe the newspapers of B.C. are accurate, she went on.

Mrs. Arsens suggested newspapers should print a box score daily on page one indicating the mistakes they had made.

GRADE SYSTEM

"I would like to see a system of grading . . . the newspapers would start with 100 per cent . . . Then if any citizen could prove something had been distorted, off should come a mark."

Such a system would make newspapers "toe the mark," she submitted.

She herself had been misquoted, she said, and called it "disfigurement by pen."

But she granted the press had a better opportunity to serve its communities than clergy, doctor or teacher.

She verbally spanked Victoria College students, too, for the burning of an effigy popularly believed to have represented Mayor Claude Harrison, during the book-burning controversy.

"Teachers should never have allowed it," she maintained.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1954

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Lydia (the columnist's friend) Arsens has proposed a point system for newspapers to "make them toe the mark."

Thus, without further delay, we introduce the Lydia-Meter method of grading newspapers.

On your mark, get set, toe.

LYDIA-METER

Times box score, issue of March 3.

(Exclusive Arsens Method)	Demerits
Gallup Poll story	1
All-Blacks (sports page)	1
Monte Roberts column	3
Total demerits	10

EXPLANATORY NOTES

1. Gallup Poll story made out that people were happier in 1952 than 1954, a noteworthy example of how the press uses its power to depress rather than uplift.

2. All-Blacks story was another perfect opportunity for uplift missed. Name "All-Blacks" very depressing. The least sports editor could have done was to call for a change to All-Whites.

3. Garbage dump story most mishandled in paper. No reference made to the Arsens three-can plan for garbage disposal, which would, of course, have solved the whole question.

4. Women's page recipe for shrimp scallop obviously written without reference to excellent Victoria restauranteurs.

5. Roberts column deliberately takes derogatory view of oratory, thereby undermines traditional right of MLA's to make speeches with their feet in their mouths.

(N.B.—There is an automatic one-point demerit for Roberts' column each day it is published.)

This leaves The Times a total of 90 points.

If we are careful, they might last us about 10 days.

Then what would happen? If we went out of business, what would people use to wrap up their (you should excuse the expression) garbage in?

Perhaps Lydia could allow us 1,000 to start with, as they do in the baseball standings.

We might last three months on that basis.

(If you think the above is hilarious—as I do—you might thank our Church Editor, Lance Whittaker. He wrote it.)

Swept from the roadway by the force of collision with a milk van Thursday, a sedan taking a group of blind people for a weekly outing claimed one life, injured four. Dead bandleader Charles C. Rowles was seated in the left rear. The right side of the car took the brunt of the smash. He may have escaped but for a door opening. He was thrown to the roadway. Car, above, straddles stop sign at Cook and Pembroke.

HIS OWN ACCIDENT

Blind 'Reporter' First With News

By PETE LOUDON

A blind "reporter" was the first to flash the news of Wednesday's fatal traffic accident. But as he dialed a local radio station seeking to earn $2 for the best story of the day, he didn't know his friend lay dying and his own wife injured.

He knew though that there had been "a whale of a crash." He was in it.

Ernest Weber, 45, 2001 Cameron, was a back seat passenger in the car of volunteer driver, Ernest Hawker. He clambered from the vehicle seconds after a blind companion, Charles H. Rowles was hurtled to the road and killed.

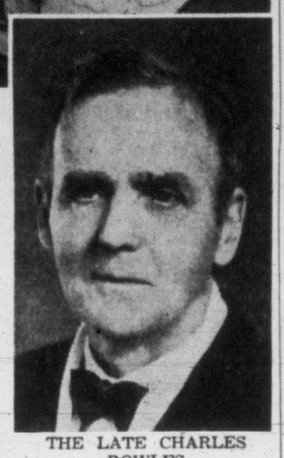
Mr. Weber didn't know of the fatality. He couldn't see his wife writhing on the grass. That he himself had a head wound and three others were hurt in the crash remained for reporters who could see to discover.

But he had "scooped" the salaried newsmen on the McGavin's Bakery robbery eight days ago he said, and he had a chance to add another honest dollar to his blindman's pension. He asked one of the first spectators on the scene to guide him to a telephone and got his story away.

Later he himself was treated at hospital and interviewed.

"I make belts too. A man on a pension needs every dollar he can make."

The Times, in return for getting in on the accident story, promised to tell its readers that the belts are of expert craftsmanship and can be bought at 2001 Cameron for $1.50 each.



THE LATE CHARLES ROWLES

treatment at St. Joseph's for a cut over his right ear, a cut left ankle and other leg injuries.

Police have not indicated whether any blame will be attached to either driver. Two patrol wagons and a prowl car took the injured to hospital.

JUST PICKED UP

Mrs. Weber told the Times the collision occurred just one block after she and her husband had been picked up by Mr. Hawker.

"My husband and I were in the back with Mr. Rowles. We got to the corner and I saw a milk truck come along heading toward town. There was a big crash. I got out and saw Mr. Rowles on the road. I think he bumped his head on the curb. I went and lay on the grass."

Mrs. Weber had a severe head bump and lost a shoe in the disorder of the moment.

Field secretary for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind here, Miss Dorothy Stark described Mr. Hawker as: "One of our most reliable and careful drivers." He had been a regular volunteer for more than a year.

REGULAR DRIVER

He had driven White Cane Club members to Monday cribbage sessions and Wednesday meetings regularly as one of a fleet of 30 volunteers. The group have done the work as a charity for five years without a previous accident, Miss Stark said.

She added that she had known Mr. Rowles for a number of years as he has had gradually failing sight. "He had not much useful vision left for the last two or three years."

The deceased left no relatives here but close friends think he has a brother in England.

He organized and became leader of the Victoria Boys' Band 33 years ago and during his career taught more than 1,500 youngsters to play musical instruments. It was because of his meagre build and five-foot height that he became known as the "Little Bandmaster".

He lived at 2701 Asquith.

The body rests at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

An inquest will be held Monday at 10.30 a.m., at Chaplin's.

CADETS MOURN

C. H. Rowles' Death Blow To IOF Band

Victoria may have lost a band as well as a good citizen in the death in an automobile smash Tuesday of Charles H. Rowles.

C. A. Burley, chief instructor and lieutenant in the Independent Order of Foresters Cadet Corps, said today his group had just completed arrangements with Mr. Rowles to lead a cadet band.

"He planned to teach the music," said Mr. Burley, but due to his almost complete blindness the group planned to seek another band leader when the work of the group was more advanced.

The IOF band idea is only a few weeks old. Already a nucleous has been formed and the boys who already had instruments were to bring them to their cadet drill Friday night.

"They were enthusiastic and Mr. Rowles was more so. He was a grand old man. He defeated all our arguments about costs once he heard we were interested.

READY PURSE

"He told us how he had bought instruments for boys himself in the past and had the boys repay the expense with a few cents every week.

"Now we are left hanging in the air. We have a lot of hope but no bandmaster."

Last Christmas Mr. Rowles led another boys' band at the Veterans' Hospital in one of hundreds of charitable performances he has provided over the 35 years he had taught boys to love music.

He paraded his charges through downtown streets at the B.C. Products Fair opening last year.

He was born in Maidstone, Kent, and was trained to be a wheelwright. He has been a soldier, a professional acrobat, a circus clown, a church organist, a chorister and a trap-drummer as well as a band leader.

Since 1919 he had taught here an estimated 1,500 boys.

Publicity Men Must Elect New President

A new president will be elected by Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau directors Monday noon to succeed Major H. Cuthbert Holmes, who refused re-election at the annual meeting Wednesday afternoon in Empress Hotel ballroom.

Major Holmes has been president since 1952, and is the senior director, having held office without interruption for 30 years.

Illness that has plagued him for the last year was Major Holmes' chief reason for withdrawing his name from a list of nominees compiled by Mayor Claude L. Harrison and four ex-mayors of Victoria—Herbert H. Anscomb, Percy E. George, Reginald Hayward and J. C. Pendray.

Regret at Major Holmes' decision was recorded by several. Ald. Frank Mulliner was among those who praised "Mr. Vancouver Island" for his unremitting efforts on behalf of the Publicity Bureau, the Island and its tourist trade.

Chosen as 1954 directors, from a slate of 11, were W. J. Clark, Wallace G. Courtney, J. V. Johnson, Walter S. Miles, G. Conway Parrott and Capt. O. J. Williams.

City council members of the nine-man directorate are Ald. Geoffrey I. Edgelow, Ald. Brent Murdoch and Ald. William Pinfold.

Victoria Bar Answers Alice Dobeson Charges

Law Society Ready to Entertain Claims Of Misconduct; Reviews Woman's Case

The Victoria Bar Association, through its president, J. G. Ruttan, today issued a formal statement replying to claims of Mrs. Alice Dobeson that she had suffered financially through lawyers.

Mrs. Dobeson is the woman who broke a window at the Legislative Buildings on February 18, asserting she was looking for justice because she thought she had been "swindled". Mrs. Dobeson will face a charge of wilful damage at the spring assizes.

FULL STATEMENT

The Bar Association statement was issued following a meeting Wednesday. It follows:

It appears from press reports that a Mrs. Alice Dobeson claims to have suffered financial loss due in part to the fraudulent behaviour of lawyers. No complaints have been lodged by this lady with either the Victoria Bar Association or the Law Society of British Columbia. If, however, Mrs. Dobeson or any other person considers that he or she has suffered through the misconduct of a member of the legal profession there is a direct and simple procedure that may be followed. The complainant need only write a letter to the secretary of the Law Society of British Columbia, at the Court House, Vancouver, British Columbia, giving details of the case. Such complaint will receive immediate and careful consideration and if any unprofessional conduct be found disciplinary action will be taken.

FREE ADVICE

In the meantime it should be noted that some free legal assistance in her present difficulties have been afforded to this lady by the Legal Aid Committee of the Victoria Bar Association.

The facts, as we understand them, are as follows:

Mrs. Alice May Dobeson and her daughter sold their business, the Langford Lake Store, in November of 1952 for $14,800. The documents included the following clause:

"It is understood and agreed by the Grantors (Mrs. Dobeson and her daughter) that the value of the said stock-in-trade at wholesale prices is guaranteed to be not less than $4,000 and that if there is any shortage therein the said price shall be reduced by the amount of such shortage"

The document was drawn by the solicitor for the purchaser. Mrs. Dobeson and her daughter did not at that time retain a solicitor to represent them.

After taking possession the purchaser claimed that the stock-in-trade was worth only $1,400 and held back the difference of $2,600. Mrs. Dobeson and her daughter thereupon sued for the $2,600 and the case was heard by a Supreme Court Judge in Victoria, in May of 1953. Mrs. Dobeson and her daughter claimed that they had not read the document before they signed it and that the document did not agree with the interim agreement which the parties had first signed.

After a trial lasting two days and hearing the witnesses who were present when Mrs. Dobeson and her daughter signed the documents, the judge found against them on both points and dismissed their action with costs.

APPEAL ABANDONED

Mrs. Dobeson sought advice from a Vancouver solicitor and commenced an appeal which was later abandoned.

The price as reduced by the court decision is accounted for as follows:

Mrs. Dobeson received approximately $4,000 in cash, the purchaser assumed approximately $4,000 in debts owing on the property and business and Mrs. Dobeson has a balance of $4,000 payable to her and secured by sub-agreement registered at the Land Registry Office, Victoria, British Columbia, and payable at the rate of $75 a month, all in accordance with the original contract.

Oak Bay Scouts Seek Permission For $6,000 Hall

Representatives from three Boy Scout packs in Oak Bay Wednesday night asked Oak Bay Council for permission to erect a $6,000 Scout hall near Monterey and St. Ann streets.

The request, calling for construction of the building on municipal-owned property, was taken into consideration by council, which will meet with the representatives again in the near future.

Money for construction of the hall would be supplied by the Scouting group, L. E. Gower, chairman of the Scout joint building committee, said today.

Oak Bay groups now have about $1,000, he said, and if permission is granted, a drive to obtain more funds would be put into effect.

Represented at the council meeting were the Oak Bay, Windsor Park and Willows Scouting groups.

Gordon A. Lyon, 19, 1032 Oliphant told Magistrate H. C. Hall today in city court that he had been driving for three years without car insurance. He was fined $40 and warned that any driver under 21 is required to have insurance on his vehicle.

Socred MLA Urges Real Estate Men Guard Reputations

The Real Estate Board of Victoria should keep a closer check on real estate operators in city and districts, Herbert Bruch, Socred MLA for Esquimalt, said today.

Mr. Bruch maintained there were "quite a few" cases of complaints from persons who felt they had been "rooked" in transactions.

"A lot of inferences are going around," he said.

Listings of the 40-member Victoria board include many from municipalities as well.

Mr. Bruch, who mentioned the subject in the Legislature on Wednesday, said at the moment he could not pinpoint complaints, but that they were there.

If the matter was to develop, it might hinder people who wanted to come to this area from elsewhere in Canada to settle, he said.

Many such individuals, here to retire, are on limited incomes. Thus any malpractice on the part of real estate operators would work a particular hardship on them, he said.

Popular Auto Court Changes Owner

One of the largest auto courts in Victoria has changed ownership.

Edgewater Auto Court, Island Highway, has been sold by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sampson to H. Cleland of Quesnel, it was learned today.

The sale was announced by Mr. and Mrs. Sampson who are planning to spend a year's vacation in Europe. They are sailing from New York on April 13 on the Mauratania, and will first visit England.

Edgewater Auto Court is composed of 21 units and is a well-known tourist centre. Mr and Mrs. Sampson are owners of other real estate in Victoria and Vancouver.

TV TO WATCH HILLARY PARTY ON VISIT HERE

Sir Edmund Hillary's visit to Victoria will be televised by the CBC, cameraman Paul Johnson advised The Times this morning.

Mr. Johnson will televise an interview on the arrival of the Everest team here Sunday night. On Monday night he will take pictures of the crowds entering Memorial Arena, and some actual scenes of the lecture in progress.

The film will be included in the highly-popular CBC-TV news broadcast at 7 p.m. the following night, Tuesday.

City Asked to Keep Garbage Clear of Homes

Taxpayers Fearful Of Inefficiency

Suggestion that the city go out of town if it wants to experiment with the sanitary landfill method of garbage disposal, was contained in a petition presented city council today from 230 residents of Topaz Heights.

The residents protested against the city's public works committee plan to have garbage used as a fill for an excavated area of Baker brickyard, adjoining their housing development.

The petition said residents "are definitely and unalterably opposed to sanitary landfill garbage disposal in the heart of a metropolitan area."

It said further: "We believe there is at least an even chance of the plan now envisioned being inefficiently handled in the four to 12 years of its life. If this should be the case, property values in this residential area would drop sharply.

"If the council wanted to try a scheme of this nature, we believe it should be carried out on a small scale initially in an area far-removed from a residential section so that the city public works department could first prove its ability to handle such a scheme efficiently."

The petition also said: "We are unable to accept optimistic and totally-unsubstantiated declarations that the so-called sanitary landfill would not create odor, noise, dust and rat nuisance and constitute a health menace for this community."

Throne Speech Debate Will Wind Up Friday

Presentation of the budget has tentatively been altered for Monday by Premier Bennett.

Debate on the budget is expected to take at least another three weeks.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. HUNTER

Spring was in the air, and Gus was in the garden with his wife and her mother, marking out his new lawn. "I don't like the shape," his wife told him. "If you make it six feet longer and three feet narrower you'll have room for a path. Besides, as the area will be exactly the same, you won't have to buy any extra seed." But her mother had other ideas: "Who wants a path?" she asked, in that tone which always makes Gus squirm. "Make it eight feet shorter and six feet wider, then you'll have space for vegetables at the far end, and you'll still get the same area." So now Gus looks forward to weary evenings spent hunting out slugs and caterpillars. What do you make the area of that lawn?

Wednesday's answer: Uncle Joe had $1.80 in his hand.

5 Million Lepers' Hopes High For Cure By Wonder Drug

A new cure for "leprosy" is working wonders on thousands of patients in India, China, Burma and South Africa, A. Donald Miller, general secretary of the Mission to Lepers, said here today.

Mr. Miller is on a speaking tour of Canada before returning to his home in England. He recently visited lepresariums in India, Colombo, Singapore, Hong Kong, Formosa, Japan and Korea. He is accompanied by his wife Dr. Marjorie Miller.

A. DONALD MILLER

Mr. Miller will speak at a public meeting tonight at 8 in the Central Baptist Church.

Referring to the new cure for leprosy known as sulphonetherapy, Mr. Miller said the treatment "has opened a new chapter" in the treatment of this disease, dread of the ancients and still a plague of many climes.

The drug was first developed about 12 years ago, but was not perfected until recently, he explained. It now takes about five years to cure the average person.

"But there is no mass treatment," he added. "Expert treatment is needed for each individual, and the treatment, as you can see, is still lengthy."

Mr. Miller said leprosy was chiefly found among the poorer nations of the world. There were about 5,000,000 lepers in the world, he said.

The disease is on the increase in Korea due largely to the war and famine in that country.

Esquimalt Makes Sanitary Landfill

Skinner's Flat, a low-flying area in Esquimalt, has been used as dumping ground for municipal garbage under sanitary landfill method since last summer. Municipal officials say the scheme is working well and that no letters of complaint have been received from nearby residents. Operation was suspended during bad weather months. City's plan to carry out similar operation on larger scale in Topaz Heights area is under protest of residents near there. (Times photo.)

ASK The TIMES

Q. Can you tell me the address in England to which I should write for information concerning a family crest, and what fee is charged to conduct a search?

—Mrs. C. A. G.

A.—Your best plan would be to write directly to the Heralds' College, London, Eng.

Q.—If I want to write under a pen name as was done in the case of "Mark Twain" or "Ralph Connor", may I proceed to use any name I wish or do I have to register the proposed name or copyright it? How do I proceed to protect myself against any action by anyone who might prossess the name I might choose? —J. L. W.

A. — The B.C. Change of Name Act sets forth the steps any British subject may take in this province to adopt a new name. It makes no reference to pen names. Thus, if a writer drifts into use of a pen name and later an issue arises over the pseudonym which cannot be settled by friendly discussion the courts may be asked to make a ruling.

This Crazy Bluebird Will Remove All Drips!

By PENNY SAVER

I maintain that we should add zip to every day ordinary things in life . . . and perching a tiny bluebird on the spout of your favorite Brown Betty teapot is one way to raise a few eyebrows.

Anyway, nobody wants a dripping teapot spout! Most of us know that there are various teapot attachments available, to rid one of this messy annoyance without the buying of a new teapot. But this latest rid-drip attachment . . . is the most!

I'm willing to wager that, although the good old stand-by . . . a plastic or rubber attachable spout . . . does the trick it's still not very unusual.

Yup, he's a cute li'l guy, this china bluebird. He comes with a sponge, which is the actual drip-catcher, that fits on the under-side of the spout. Our friend, the bird, perches with semi-spread wings, on top. Best of all, this attachment works, and you pay just $1 for it. It has a little card which says, "Hang me on your teapot spout . . . I'll catch the drips as they come out."

Local stores are beginning to receive their spring stock of T-shirts, and one new item of interest is the English-made shirt of cotton jersey, that's woven to look like the fine, pure wool T-shirts that are popular . . . yet naturally much more expensive than cotton.

These models are styled identically to the standard English pure wool ones with long sleeves and collar. The cotton has an unusually fine weave, which is reason it looks so much like wool. They cost $3.50 and come in heather tones of grey, beige and blue.

Those of you who insist on sticking by the woolen ones, will be glad to know that they are also in good supply at a price of $7.95 and in colors of grey, blue heather and navy.

AS WE LIVE

16-Year-Old Is Too Young to Get Serious

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

A girl of 16 is much too young to try to decide what the future course of her life will be. The best thing for her to do is to adopt a "wait-and-see" policy. That is the advice I am giving the 16-year-old who wrote:

Hurlock

(Q)—"I went steady with a boy I thought I liked very much. When we broke up, I knew he was the only one. Now he wants to go steady again and I'm not sure if I should start or not. You see, I write to a boy in the service. I got his name and address through a pen club. I have never met him but he is getting serious. In May, he will be coming home. Should I go steady with the boy at home and if so, what will I tell the boy in service?"

(A)—Keep the friendship of both boys but don't go steady again until you are older. If you do, you will find yourself cut off from other boys your own age and this will almost force you to continue to go with this boy, even if you later discover that he is not the one for you.

As for the young man you are writing to, you should keep his friendship, but don't get serious about him until you meet him. You really cannot tell anything about a person from letters alone. You must know him personally before you can judge what sort of a boy he is.

I do not think it is necessary to explain to either boy about the other. Your friend at home can merely be told that you do not want to limit yourself to him or to any other boy at this time. Urge him to go with other girls and expect him to be reasonable about your going with other boys.

The young man in the service certainly must know that you have dates with the boys you know in school. He could not expect you to sit around and wait for him when you two have never even met. There is no need to go into detail about your friends at home.

Opera Star Shares Favored Recipes

When Bidu Sayao, the glamorous star of the Metropolitan Opera and the concert stage who will give a concert here on Monday at the Royal Theatre, returns either to her New York apartment or to her summer house on the coast of Maine, after her tour is over, there is nothing she likes better than to busy herself in her kitchen. The tiny, glittering soprano, who sparkles on the stage like the jewels she loves to collect, is proud of her domesticity—particularly of her cooking.

The slim, vivacious Brazilian singer is famous for her Braziliah dishes. She takes a handful of black beans and rice, a bit of pork, dried beef and bacon, a few slices of sausage, a few oranges for good measure, and tosses it all in a big pot. Then she consults the face of her unique wristwatch, which is less than a quarter of an inch in diameter, and stirs up her specialty, a feijoada.

Bidu Sayao recently gave out some of her recipes to an interviewer over a tiny cup of strong Brazilian coffee, coffee a la Rio takes four tablespoons for three cups—"coffee must be strong, sweet and hot"—and everyone down Rio way drinks 20 to 30 such little cups a day without noticeable jitters.

"Brazilians," Bidu Sayao points out, "take much pleasure in preparing their recipes and have much imagination. For example, 'Maiden's Kiss' is a confection of eggs and cocoanut, and 'Slices of Heaven' is a fluffy egg pancake, sprinkled with sugar, and eaten cold."

Here are two of Bidu Sayao's tested recipes:

WHIPPED AVOCADO

Cut very ripe avocado in half and seed. Remove the pulp, keeping the skin intact. Sieve the pulp and whip to a smooth, velvety cream, adding powdered sugar and lemon juice to taste. Pile mixture back into the skins and serve as a dessert.

RICE BRAZIL
(With Shrimp)

One pound shrimp, 6 cups salted water, 2 onions (sliced), 2 garlic cloves (minced), 3 tablespoons olive oil or other fat, 1 cup rice (washed and drained), salt to taste, 1 tablespoon tomato paste, ½ No. 2 can green peas or 1 cup cooked fresh peas.

After washing the shrimps thoroughly, boil in the salted water in a two-quart covered kettle until pink. Peel shrimps and clean. Place shrimp shells back in the same water and boil for 15 minutes. Dicard shells and save liquid.

Brown one of the sliced onions and garlic cloves in two tablespoons of the oil in a skillet of quart and a half capacity. Add the drained rice. Stir well. Add three cups of the shrimp stock. Salt to taste. Cover and cook over a moderate flame until rice is dry.

Pour off and reserve the remaining shrimp stock and in the two-quart kettle used in Step No. 1, brown the remaining onion and garlic in the remaining oil. Add the tomato paste, shrimps and remaining shrimp stock. Add peas, salt to taste and rice mixture. Stir well. Yield: six portions.

Hot or cold canned peach halves make wonderful meat garnishes. Their sweet delicate flavor is perfect for ham or lamb or any other spring favorite.

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The bright spring sunshine tempted a few feminine guests at laying of the cornerstone for the new wing at Victoria Nursing Home, Wednesday afternoon, to wear modish new-season hats.

Tilted forward in the latest style the gay chapeaux were a decided note of interest.

Mrs. Clarence Wallace, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, chose a daffodil yellow straw in the shallow-crowned pill-box style. A small tailored bow of the same straw was edged with navy blue to match the navy blue veil.

Bessie

Alderman Margaret Christie, savoring the triumph of seeing her heart's desire take tangible form in the new wing, had chosen a small white straw, banded with lipstick red. A narrow curving red and white feather was the decoration.

A fine black Milan straw in the new pancake mode and trimmed with a round fluff of black feathers was choice of Mrs. Waldo Skillings. The hat, pushed well forward, added interest to her new coiffure in which the hair was piled high in a series of curls at the back of her head.

There was a stylish dash to Mrs. C. C. Wyatt's exceptionally narrow brimmed black straw, faced with narrow bands of velvet. A perky feather was held with a tiny brilliant pin.

Mrs. H. Parkes was wearing a halo-brimmed two-toned straw in navy and white; Mrs. Charles Smith a brown narrow-brimmed straw beret with pheasant quill trim. Mrs. C. C. Warren, president of the nursing home women's auxiliary, had chosen the ever-popular navy blue tone in a small hat with button trim.

In the official ceremony, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor tapped the historic stone smartly with a tiny silver trowel and said in clear, ringing tones, "I declare this cornerstone well and truly laid."

Cameras clicked and whirred and smiles of satisfaction lighted the faces of chairman F. E. Winslow and members of the board of directors of the nursing home.

In the moment hush following the ceremony, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor turned to Albert Parfitt, who had mixed the cement and helped to ease the stone into place.

"Thank you very much for the help!" His Honor said with the friendly smile that gains him friends wherever he goes.

Looking out through the skeleton uprights that some day will be solarium windows in the great new wing, I could see a tall redwood tree . . . or Sequoia, as the species was known in Victoria, in early days . . . right smack in the middle of operations. In fact, excavations had been carefully made around the tree in an ell-shape.

Alderman Margaret Christie saw me looking at the excavation and she stopped beside me to say: "It is such a beautiful tree . . . and it has been there such a long time, no one wanted to see it cut down. So . . . the plans were changed a bit . . . now the building takes a jog . . . and we saved the tree."

That tree was once part of a lovely garden. In the days when the Victoria Nursing Home was a gracious private residence, known to Victorians as "Sissinghurst," the home of the Crow-Baker family.

* * *

Afternoon tea was served in the lounge of the Victoria Nursing Home. The refreshments table was covered with an attractive lace cloth and decorated with vases of golden yellow daffodils. Mrs. W. G. Wilson and Mrs. J. W. Lennox presided at the tea urns.

* * *

Guests at the tea looking up from the lounge to the second flower balcony could see four residents of the home, seated in wheel-chairs, where they could watch the party. They were Miss A. Harris, Mrs. G. White, Mrs. M. Dodds and Mrs. L. Strange.

Chronic Elderly Patients Take More Than Third of VON Visits in Year

In annual meeting held this afternoon at Spencerhouse, Mrs. Dudley Markham was re-named president of the board of directors of Victorian Order of Nurses for another year.

Other officers are Mr. Harold Webster, first vice-president; Mrs. E. P. Gillespie, second; Mrs. L. C. D'Easum, secretary and Mr. J. B. Barnum, treasurer.

Mrs. Clarence Wallace is honorary president.

In her year's report Mrs. Markham pointed out that a third of the nursing visits last year were made to elderly people suffering from chronic ailments and that the approximate $2,500 the Victoria Branch received from the government did not approach the actual cost of this care, which was over $7,000.

Delegations have twice approached the B.C. government during the past year, Mrs. Markham said, in an effort to have the grant of $300 per nurse changed to straight payment of cost per visit to wards of the government.

"Should this part of our work have to be abandoned for lack of funds," Mrs. Markham pointed out, "the increased pressure on hospitals would be serious."

Mr. J. B. Barnum in presenting the treasurer's report showed revenue for the year as $33,267.21. Grants from province, city, municipalities of Oak Bay and Esquimalt and Community Chest, with $901.44 from the annual rummage sale made up this amount.

MRS. DUDLEY MARKHAM RE-NAMED PRESIDENT

Superintendent of nurses, Miss Marjorie Baird, announced through her report that eight nurses made 18,776 visits during the year and that there were 2,844 patients. Parentcraft classes were also conducted.

A total of 1,086 visits were made to the Chinese Hospital where more sick, elderly Chinese have required daily attendance and where seven patients are constantly under care. Service was also extended to View Royal in June and part-time industrial nursing was begun in October.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Everybody likes cheese with apple pie, but did you ever think of what a smashing combination cheese and pineapple might make. Pineapple cheese pie is our answer and one that we think will get an A plus every time!

One cup pineapple juice, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, few grains grated nutmeg, 2 (20-ounce) cans pineapple chunks, drained (3 cups), ¾ cup grated old Canadian cheddar cheese, pie paste.

Mix a little pineapple juice with cornstarch in saucepan, then add remaining juice. Cook until clear and thickened. Remove from heat and add sugar, salt, butter, vanilla and nutmeg. Cool mixture while lining 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Arrange tidbits in pie plate. Stir cheese into sauce and pour over pineapple. Top with lattice pastry. Bake in a hot oven (450° F) for 12 minutes. Lower heat to 375° and bake 35 minutes more. Serve warm or cold. —(Makes 6 servings)

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Best Years of Life Are When You're Vital

What are the best years of our lives? This question was highlighted in my mind when I saw that Samuel Goldwyn is again releasing "The Best Years of Our Lives." Already more than 45,000,000 people have seen this picture, here and abroad.

Physiologists say one thing and psychologists another. I think my answer would be, "The best years of our lives are when we are alive." There is a great difference of opinion about this, but certainly the best years are those in which we live fully, at any age.

Walter Pitkin convinced about everyone that life begins at 40 while Marlene Dietrich has given millions of women a new lease of the fiftieth decade by managing to be both glamorous and a grandmother. Think also of such famous octogenarians as Arturo Toscanini, Frank Lloyd Wright and Bernard Baruch.

The years can be poor at any age if you allow them to become dulled by strain, a dreary outlook, a lowered state of health, worry, or an unawareness of the adventure in daily life. This is so easy to do when life gangs up on you, as it does at times on all of us.

Someone has suggested that it is too bad that youth is wasted on young people. This, it seems to me, was quite a wise saying. From maturity on should be the most exciting time of life, and is, if we have physical vitality and a youthful attitude.

At this period in living we have the advantage of experience in love, friendship, and our work. By this time we should know which activities mean something to us and which are sheer loss in energy. This latter is so important in vibrant living because life is apt to get us by the neck and push us along so rapidly that we look back and wonder where we have been, and why.

These are the best years, wherever you are, and today is the best day, because you have it right in your hands. Live fully in today and all of your years will seem best. Living fully today means feeling excited about today, hopeful for tomorrow, and no regrets for the past!

Watt, tea receipts; Mrs. A. Murphy and Mrs. F. Longland, grocery contest; Mrs. May Graves and Miss Queenie Prior, refreshments.

Museum Director Speaks to Jaycee-Ettes

Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Jaycee-Ettes Club, held Monday evening in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric Company. He showed a film on marine life and gave an informative narration. The Jaycee-ettes are organizing a rummage sale, to be held on the morning of April 3, in the Public Market. Proceeds will be used to further the club's work assisting charities and contributing to the Cerebral Palsy Association.

Cottage cheese makes a delicious dessert this way. Spoon creamed cottage cheese into sauce dishes and pour on thin cream. Drizzle honey over top. If available, top with chunks of fresh pineapple. Gourmetish and very good tasting.

Cornerstone Laid for Nursing Home Addition

The steady growth of Victoria had created a pressing need for the 104-bed addition to the Gorge Road Nursing Home, Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace said Wednesday when he laid the cornerstone for the $400,000 annex at a brief ceremony attended by more than 100 representatives of civic bodies, provincial government and organizations which have supported the development. Canon George Biddle dedicated the building. Amongst those pictured above, facing camera, left to right, are architect John Wade, Health Minister Eric Martin, F. E. Winslow, chairman of the nursing home directors; His Honor and Acting Mayor Frank Mulliner. Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, wife of the premier; Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Mulliner were among the guests. VICTORIANS' PLAY IN DRAMA FESTIVAL

Adjudicator's Highest Praise Awarded Theatre Guild Entry

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

An original play written by Mrs. Betty Wainwright of Victoria, and a first entry by the Peninsula Players of Sidney, were features of Wednesday night's program in the Southern Vancouver Island Drama Festival.

Highest praise so far, however, was given by Miss Margaret Barney, Portland adjudicator, to the Victoria Theatre Guild entry, "Two Gentlemen of Soho." All sessions are taking place in the auditorium of Oak Bay Junior High School.

"HERE WE GO AGAIN"
By Betty Wainwright
Presented by St. Andrew's Cathedral Drama Club

John Travers	Danny Christianson
Helen Travers	Mary Keogh
Miss White	Sally Rogers
Miss Julie Cory	May Craycroft
K. C. Kendall	Mickey Muir

Director: Mr. Stephano Novini

Commenting that this was the only original play in the festival, Miss Barney said it was a pity more were not being written. One should have one's own group in mind, while at the same time, writing for everyone, she said.

"TWO GENTLEMEN OF SOHO"

Waiter	Ron Speck
Duchess of Canterbury	Olive Garrood
Plum	Brian Ainscough
Topsey	Mary Jessop
Sneak	George McDowall
Lavinia	Margaret Thomas
Withers	Len Lauk
Hubert	Len McCann

Director: Len Lauk

Miss Barney found little to criticize in this production. The enthusiastic audience reaction at the opening of the curtain and again at the end, indicated its success for, as the adjudicator pointed out, the audience is, in fact, the critic.

"Congratulations," she exclaimed. "It was delightful!" She found the set particularly excellent.

"THE TAIL OF FIRE"
By T. B. Morris
Presented by Peninsula Players, Sidney

Jack Chewberry	Jim Elliot
Jill Nonesuch	Joan Henriksen
Cecily Tomurs	Penella Paterson
Old Sossie	Jane Leigh
Father Peter	Larry Scardifield
Robert Nonesuch	Joe Lunn
Matilda Chewberry	Kay Vickerman

Director: Mrs. Alisa Rothery

This medieval verse play was considered "very good" by the adjudicator, who was happy to welcome Sidney into the festival for the first time in many years. She especially admired the fine costuming and the marvelous effect created with the simple scenery.

Program for tonight consists of a second entry by Victoria Theatre Guild, "The Invisible Worm," a Canadian play by Elda Cadogan; "Down To the Seas," the third offering of St. Andrew's Cathedral Drama Club, and "The Devil in the Lottery," presented by the Columbine Club of Victoria.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

SA (Choice Class) A (Don't Miss) BS (Worthwhile) B (B For Rainy Days) C (Time out to time)

"MAIN STREET TO BROADWAY" (Capitol) — This M-G-M production is especially designed for the stage-struck and those attempting to write books and plays. Certainly no other class of citizen could be bothered worrying along with Tom Morton over his ability to write a Broadway hit.

However, for the few who would sympathize, "Main Street To Broadway" would have its moments once the story got de-cluttered with the film's 17 big-name stars who appear now and then for no good reason at all. Some of these, in alphabetical order, include Lionel Barrymore, Gertrude Begg, Shirley Booth, Louis Calhern, baseballer Leo Durocher, Faye Emerson, Oscar Hammerstein, Rex Harrison, Helen Hayes, Joshua Logan, Mary Martin, Lilli Palmer, Richard Rodgers, John Van Druten and Cornel Wilde.

Playing larger roles are the indominatable Tallulah Bankhead, who is priceless and worth the admission just to sit back and marvel at, and the lovely veteran Ethel Barrymore who makes most everyone else sound like an amateur.

★ ★ ★

THE BARE PLOT OF THE story concerns young Morton, the fretting playwright, who falls in love with Mary Murphy, a young Indiana girl in the big city to study drama. When she goes home seeking the quiet life of her hometown Morton follows her but rages back to New York, walk-ups and loneliness to write his play for Tallulah. In Indiana, Mary meets Herb Shriner, amiable Hoosier wit and star of radio and television, who plays the small town boy making good. Mary's final decision between the two leaves the audience and Shriner gasping. Both thought he was winning in a walk.

A SECOND HALF OF THE Capitol's bill is "Terror on a Train," a better-than-average thriller starring Glenn Ford as Peter Lyncourt, a young demolition expert whom Scotland Yard assigns to find a time bomb planted by a saboteur in an English munitions train. BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

"The following rules," I point out in my brand-new book, "What's New in Bridge," are observed by practically all good players (in doubling a contract of three no-trump):

1. If only one suit has been bid by the defenders, the double requests a lead in that suit.

2. If each defender has bid a suit, the doubler wants his own suit led.

3. When the defending side has not bid, the double usually asks for a lead in the first suit bid by the dummy. If the dummy has rebid that suit, however, the leader is expected to use his judgment in choosing one of the other suits.

The third rule is illustrated in today's hand. East doubles in the hope of getting a spade lead. With the spade lead he is sure of at least two spade tricks and the ace of clubs. East assumes from the fact that his opponents have "staggered" into the game that they have only 25 or 26 points at most. Hence West will have some high cards. Otherwise East could not afford to double because he cannot set the contract with his own hand.

West dutifully opens a spade, and East wins as cheaply as possible. He returns a diamond, and West wins a finesse. West leads another spade, and East leads another diamond. South is caught in the middle and must lose three spades, two diamonds, and the ace of clubs. (If South makes the mistake of putting up the ace of diamonds on an early round of that suit, he will be even worse off.) At any rate, the defenders take at least six tricks, setting the contract two tricks.

If East fails to double, West is likely to open a diamond. South wins, promptly knocks out the ace of clubs, and cannot be prevented from winning four hearts, two diamonds, and three clubs. South therefore makes his contract.

The difference between the blind and the directed opening lead is two tricks, and the difference in points is about 800 or 1,000 points, depending on vulnerability.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By BILL PARKER

Dorothy Livesay's name will soon become a household word if the CBC has any influence over the public.

Tonight, the second play of the week written by Miss Livesay will be performed over Winnipeg Drama at 9.30 p.m.

"Call of My People," a poetic play, follows closely behind "The Lake," which was produced during CBC Wednesday Night. A tale of the Japanese population of the West Coast, "Call of My People" recalls the hasty removal of the Japanese from all coastal ports at the beginning of the war.

This is the second performance of Miss Livesay's play, the premiere having taken place in 1949.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1954

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Someone wants to see you privately, to give you a really good suggestion how to bring more happiness, family joys, personal delights into you life now.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Attractive friend, seeing your desire to make working conditions more enjoyable in routine regularities, gives excellent plan whereby life takes on added meaning, efficiency, too.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Woman, devoted to you and with very good sense of wordly matters, steers conversation into directions that bring you flash inspiration to best way to increase your current emoluments.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21) — Your ingenious ideas can be accomplished quickly, if you will use means at your fingertips to get added data needed—your newspaper, radio, TV, magazine provide answer right under your nose.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)—You have excellent hunch, which you would be wise to consider instead of scoffing at, which gives deep-seated conviction best way to make all relations with others more satisfactory — in romance, especially.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22) — Woman, who thinks highly of you, will listen to no criticism of you, brings person into your aura who can become very staunch supporter; but you must be willing to accept and encourage friendship.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)—Getting your food, apparel, environment in better shape by latest approved methods increases your sense of well-being, also bringing other realization of your most co-operative qualities.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)—You have your mind all made up to have a good time — and this is really your day to have joys usually not convenient or available; make lots of new acquaintances; get data you require.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)—Let nothing stand in the way of keeping peace at home, which is best accomplished by gentle, understanding attitude — especially by extending small courtesies that do not cost much save in thought.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Modern idea given you by progressive associate may shock you for the moment, but thinking it over brings realization it's just what you need for success; be open-minded and try it out now.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Work and money pressures keep you busy today, but there's no drudgery if you pitch in, realize you've a big chance to accomplish far more than for some time past. Keep plugging away.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Surprise invitation, opportunity really opens your eyes wide if you replace possible lethargy with alert acceptance of untried ideas that suddenly pop into your horizon.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN FRIDAY . . .

Friday's child is one of those very up-and-coming individuals who will be so charged with energy and ideas, and so highly aware of all that is going on about him, or her, that you'd be wise to always listen carefully to any recommendation your progeny makes to you, even in childhood. An inventive mind, an instinctive sense of what is going on and the right method for handling, makes your life much richer by the inclusion of this offspring. Fine for almost any vocation that appeals.

SOCRED RAPS GREGORY FOR 'DISCOURTESY'

George Gregory showed "unthinking discourtesy" at the recent by-election at which he defeated former Finance Minister Einar Gunderson, Mrs. Lydia Arsens told the Legislature Wednesday.

He could "easily and courteously" have stepped aside for Mr. Gunderson, she said, and allowing his election "would have been the correct thing to do."

Mrs. Arsens said Mr. Gregory probably made up his mind in a hurry to accept the Liberal nomination, and "didn't have time to consider."

FIND HAVEN ON UNCLE'S FARM

3 B.C. Children, 11 Dogs Trek 700 Miles to Sask.

LAMPMAN, Sask. (CP) — Three weary young people have reached a haven on their uncle's farm in this southeastern Saskatchewan district after journeying 700 miles alone from Cranbrook, B.C., with a pack of yapping pet dogs in tow.

The trio, identified as Beatrice, Audrey and Ernest Jewell, started out last week from Cranbrook with 11 dogs, all of a mongrel breed of Pekinese.

The children gave their ages as between 18 and 22 but reporters who met them along the way said they were obviously much younger.

They are reported to have walked much of the 200-mile trip between Cranbrook and Lethbridge, Alta. Lethbridge cattlemen took up a $60 collection for them Monday so they could travel the remaining 500 miles by train to Estevan, Sask., and wired the uncle to meet them there Tuesday.

The children were left on their own when their mother and older sister were committed at Cranbrook to the provincial mental institution.

They said their mother had told them if anything happened to her, they were to seek out their uncle, Harry Forsyth at Lampman, 110 miles southeast of Regina and 30 miles north of Estevan.

The trio also was said to have undertaken the long trip partly out of loyalty to their pets. It was reported they feared they would have to give them up if they remained in British Columbia. Their father is in British Columbia but his exact whereabouts are unknown.

Their troubles were not over when they reached Estevan. Their uncle told them they would have to get rid of all but three of their dogs before they could come with him to the farm.

They pondered the problem on a hard bench at the Estevan railway station. It took them 12 hours to sell or give away the surplus dogs. Then their uncle welcomed them to his farm.

The Jewell family was reported to have worked in British Columbia's Okanagan Valley during last summer and since then had been wandering through the area. They were in Cranbrook about a week when the mother and older sister were committed to an institution. Then the children showed up last Friday in Fernie, 63 miles east.

When they reached Lethbridge on Monday, stockman Dick Painter found they hadn't eaten for 24 hours and had slept the previous night in a railway station in Southern Alberta. Painter bought them a meal, which they shared with their dogs, and then took them over to the stockyards where cattlemen passed around a hat.

Saanich Health Centre May Get Added Facilities

Alterations to the Saanich Health Centre at Patricia Bay Highway and Glanford Avenue, is proposed in the annual report of the Saanich Welfare Committee.

The report, to be submitted to Saanich Council for approval, requests extra space for laundry facilities at the health centre and some improvements to the nurses accommodations.

The committee, headed by councillor Roy Wooten, also reported that Saanich paid $1,000 towards the Victoria juvenile home. Cost to the other municipalities are $2,719 to Victoria; $431 to Oak Bay; $302 to Esquimalt.

Ottawa Alters Tax Ruling For Dockyard

Dockyard workers' protests against paying income tax on 12½ months' earnings have been answered favorably by Hon. Ralph Campney, associate minister of national defense.

In a wire received today by Eric Harbinson, president of the Vancouver Island branch of the National Defense Employees Association, Mr. Campney said: "District treasury office will issue new TD 4 forms with January 8 payment eliminated."

The association had wired a protest to Mr. Campney, objecting to paying taxes on an extra half month's pay.

Statute, Welfare Work Aim of George VI Fund

Foundation Program Will Benefit Youth

LONDON (AP) — Plans for a £100,000 statue of the late King George VI, to be erected in a "noble setting" in London, were disclosed today by trustees of the £1,630,000 King George VI Foundation.

Another £985,000 will be spent on training and recreation for British youth and £440,000 will go for adult recreational and welfare projects, the announcement said.

Funds for the foundation were raised by public subscription after the king's death February, 1952.

A booklet giving details of how the money will be used said Queen Elizabeth has approved the appointment of William McMillan as sculptor of the statue. McMillan also created the statue of the late King's father, King George V, which stands in Calcutta.

The booklet said the site of George VI's statue will not be disclosed until the Queen, now touring the Commonwealth, has approved it.

Architect of the statue's setting will be Louis de Soissons, who designed the new British Foreign Office.

HE WON'T STARVE

Cafe-Owner Mrs. Arsens Likes Monte

Times columnist Monte Roberts will never starve, says Mrs. Lydia Arsens (Sc, Victoria).

She expressed that opinion in the Legislature Wednesday.

But, she complained, Mr. Roberts never gave her any royalties for her suggestion that there should be a three-way split of garbage in Victoria, with three receptacles available for the various types of trash.

Mr. Roberts suggested in his column, following Mrs. Arsen's suggestion for three-way garbage collection, that refuse cans be sold three for $10.43 and somebody might make a profit.

Mrs. Arsens admitted she never actually expected any royalty. "I don't mind," she said. At least I have the satisfaction of knowing we have in Victoria one reporter or columnist who won't starve for lack of initiative or a good sense of humor."

Cowichan Man Commands Troops on Way to Korea

VANCOUVER (BUP)—More than 1,500 soldiers will pass through here today and Friday for Korea to start the spring rotation of men with 12 months service in the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade.

It will be the first of a series of troop movements that will see a total of 8,000 men move to and from the Far East, the army said.

Most of the soldiers are members of the 2nd Battalion of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. The unit is commanded by Lt.-Col. W. H. V. Mathews of Cowichan, B.C., who will fly to Korea and meet his regiment there.

Other units in this week's draft include men of the 3rd Field Squadron of the Royal Canadian Engineers, detachments of the 3rd Transport Company, the 3rd Field Ambulance, the 42nd Infantry Workshop of the RCMEC and advance parts of the 4th Battalion of the Canadian Guards.

The Queen's Own Rifles came west from Camp Ipperwash, Ont., aboard three special trains. The other units are from Chilliwack, B.C., Camp Borden, Ont., and Valcartier, Que.

The men will be transported to the Far East aboard a U.S. troopship sailing from Seattle, Wash. Date of the actual sailing was withheld for security reasons.

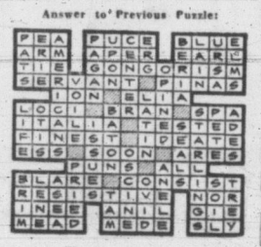
Answer to Previous Puzzle:



Nanaimo Ferry's Ills May Hash CP Schedules

CPR's Princess of Nanaimo will be out of service during the busy summer months, it was learned unofficially today.

Defective parts in the ship's turbine were detected when she was drydocked for annual overhaul early this year. It was hoped she could be put back in service in time for the stepped-up summer schedules effective April 25, but unofficial sources say the company will be "lucky" to have Princess of Nanaimo back at work by July or August.

The CPR has made no official announcement about the date the ship will resume her run. Meanwhile, Princess Marguerite is nearing the final stages of overhaul, and will go on the Nanaimo-Vancouver service March 8. With Princess Joan and Elizabeth, Marguerite will provide five round-trips daily.

Normal schedules can thus be maintained until April 25, at which date Marguerite usually joins Princess Patricia to provide fast day-boat service and train connections during the summer months.

What will be done to adjust summer schedules, with Princess of Nanaimo out of service, has not been revealed.

City Men Convicted For Impaired Driving

A $250 fine was imposed on Mahinder Singh, 607 Manchester. He pleaded guilty but asked through counsel that he be allowed to drive for business purposes as he is employed as a driver. He was remanded as to the suspension until Tuesday.

Samuel Stentaford, 900 Lavender, was remanded without plea on the same charge, until Thursday.

Business Tax Hinted for School Costs

Mayor Will Place Budget 'Before the Government'

Increasing school costs may force the city of Victoria to introduce a business tax, Mayor Claude Harrison warned Wednesday night.

The mayor, Ald. Frank Mulliner and city manager Cecil Wyatt attended a special school board meeting to see if the board's 1954 budget might be trimmed.

The board said no, and Mayor Harrison left the meeting saying he would "take the matter to the government."

He is to make a formal report to City Council this afternoon.

Prompted by Mayor Harrison throughout the meeting to render suggestions for a cut in estimates, the board repeatedly referred to the standard of education demanded by the public and termed it "a costly process."

The only item which could be cut from the budget, said Trustee W. H. Golby, is a $6,000 allocation for assessment of school properties.

Trustee Austin Curtis, however, felt that an appraisal "may be an economic step." He said the work had been put off year after year.

14,000 Students By 1959

Board chairman Walter Jeune said the school population is increasing at the rate of 1,000 per year and that by 1959 the student population of Greater Victoria will be in excess of 14,000.

"Our teachers' salaries," the chairman continued, "are quite a deal lower than they are in many districts."

He said that with the prevailing scarcity of teachers, Victoria cannot attract good ones unless a reasonably good salary is paid.

"Our teachers' salaries are low . . . only because teachers like to live here," said W. H. Haldane, school board solicitor.

Mayor Harrison said that the city's biggest trouble is money.

"Where are we going to get it? Who is going to pay for it? . . . We are going to go broke," he said.

The mayor expressed fear of bankruptcy.

"Unless something is done by holding the line, I'm telling you we are going there," he emphasized.

The board, said Mr. Jeune, "has spent hours keeping down the budget."

Chairman of the finance committee, Mr. Golby, said: "We have come to realize that the Canadian way of education is a costly process."

"You are now the victims of a curriculum. Get the government to modify it," Ald. Frank Mulliner retorted.

Public Demands High Standard

Mr. Golby said that "the public wouldn't go for that," and that it is demanding a higher standard of education. The only changes that could be made (beside the $6,000) would be so "superficial" that they would have little bearing on the overall budget.

"Then we'll very likely have a business tax," said Mayor Harrison.

Mr. Curtis said that council can refuse the school board's budget on only two points—that the budget is excessive or that it is beyond the means of the municipality to pay.

"If you can show excessiveness in the budget, I for one would be prepared to cut it," said Mr. Curtis. He said that tax collections in the city last year hit a record and that he "can't share his worship's gloomy picture of the situation."

Trustees Mrs. G. E. McGill vigorously opposed Ald. Mulliner's suggestion to cut out pre-primary classes. She said "we are miles behind older countries regarding the establishment of pre-primary classes. If we closed them, we wouldn't gain a great deal financially."

The City of Victoria's share in school costs for 1954 amounts to $1,569,402, representnig an increase of $140,049 over last year. Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Saanich and rural areas have accepted the 1954 school board estimates.

U.K. PRESS SAYS

Joe's Sword Higher Than Eisenhower's

LONDON (AP) — President Eisenhower's statement in Washington Wednesday on Senator McCarthy drew a chorus of "weak," "disappointing" and "scarcely a slap on the wrist" from British newspapers today.

"Eisenhower spoke today—at last—about McCarthyism; he left the senator rejoicing," said the London News Chronicle's story on Wednesday's United States presidential press conference.

"The President's sword was blunted and dangling tonight; the senator's was flourished higher than ever," the Liberal paper added.

EPIC OF EVEREST THRILLS CITY GIRL

A Victoria girl at present studying at McGill University has written her mother an enthusiastic review of the Sir Edmund Hillary illustrated lecture, which she saw at Currie Memorial Gymnasium in Montreal recently.

"They (Hillary, Lowe and Dr. Evans) captivated us all with their excellent account of the climb," the Victoria student wrote.

"The immense color slides are breath-taking.

"It is done so well that you can almost imagine that you yourself are the ones to reach the summit of Everest first."

This view was confirmed in a long-distance telephone conversation between the Times and James Morris, London Times reporter, who is traveling with the team, in San Francisco. "The pictures are excellent," said Morris.

The team arrives in Victoria Sunday night. They appear at Memorial Arena, under Times sponsorship, Monday night.

A concert by the band of HMCS Naden at 7.30 p.m. precedes the lecture, which commences at 8.

Blind Bandmaster Dies in Crash When Hurled From Car to Curb

A happy outing for a group of Victoria blind people became a tragedy Wednesday when the car in which they were riding crashed into a truck.

One of the sightless passengers was killed.

Five persons were hurt.

Dead is Victoria's "Little Bandmaster," Charles H. Rowles, 65, leader of boys' bands in the city since 1921.

Force of impact with the truck threw his 112-pound body out of the car, smashing his head against a curb.

He was Victoria's first 1954 traffic fatality.

He was pronounced dead soon after arrival at Jubilee Hospital.

Among the hurt were two other blind persons and two sighted. One was the driver of the Northwestern Creameries' truck, Charles MacFarlane. None of the injuries were serious and only two were in hospital today.

STRUCK BY VAN

The accident took place at the corner of Cook and Pembroke Streets at about 1.30 p.m. A passenger sedan driven by Ernest Hawker, 941 Foul Bay Road, was crossing the intersection on Pembroke, when struck by the van which was going south on Cook.

Side of the Hawker auto was caved in and both vehicles twisted off the roadway and came to rest against the fence of Royal Athletic Park.

The car tore out a stop sign as it careened to a stop.

Driver Hawker was unhurt in the crash. Beside him sat Mrs. Janet Carr, 63, of 2703 Avebury. She suffered a possible fractured left shoulder and is in satisfactory condition. She is totally blind.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

Her husband, David Carr, 72, received only a forehead cut and suffered shock. He was against the right front door which was stove in by the nose of the truck. He is still in hospital. Fully sighted, Mr. Carr acts as a guide to his wife on the weekly excursion to White Cane Club meetings.

In the back seat on the right sat Ernest Weber, 45, of 2001 Cameron. He had a slight head abrasion. He is partially blind. Mrs. Weber, 45, sat beside him. She has full use of her eyes. She emerged from the crash with three broken ribs but was released from hospital with Mr. Weber.

The man who died was seated in the position farthest removed from the point of impact, in the left rear. But with the crash the left rear door flew open and he was thrown out.

Truck driver MacFarlane was released from hospital after

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX UNCHANGED IN JANUARY

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index remained unchanged at 115.7 during January.

Food prices edged ahead slightly, but the shelter column, which includes rents, remained unchanged for the first time in many months, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The consumer price index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Before January, the yardstick had declined three months in a row, each successive drop smaller than the other.

12-Foot Drifts Isolate Many Ontario Areas

By BRITISH UNITED PRESS

Highway snow plows bucked drifts up to 12 feet deep today in efforts to reach scores of small southwestern Ontario communities isolated for four days by the worst series of storms in 50 years.

Southern Ontario was virtually an emergency area as the latest storm passed over. The city of Chatham and many smaller communities were isolated, thousands of children were home from school, all travel was stopped except by train, and communication lines were down.

Crews working day and night finally managed to clear a road into Windsor at noon today but it urged motorists to stay at home except for the most urgent travel. Officials said driving conditions around Chatham and London were "hazardous if not impossible."

Highways through stricken Ontario areas were lined with trucks and cars Wednesday night while their occupants canvassed farmhouses for any sort of accommodation.

Traffic was cut off to Dresden, Blenheim, Ridgetown, Tilbury, Erieau and Thomaesville. Thamesville could not be reached even by telephone. Telephone and telegraph wires to Kincardine also were down and only trains were getting through.

The main force of the storm missed Toronto but left ice-glazed streets which caused mile-long traffic jams this morning.

Malahat Crash Victim In Critical Condition

Daughter of Father of Confederation, Miss Lena Galt, One of Four Injured

A 90-year-old woman, Miss Lena Galt, is in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today following a two-car collision on the Malahat Wednesday night.

Three other persons were less seriously injured.

Miss Galt is a daughter of one of the Fathers of Confederation, Sir Alexander Tilloch Galt.

The accident occurred at about 5.15 p.m. when a taxi and a private car both heading south sideswiped and collided just below the entrance to Hall's Boathouse.

Three passengers in a Bluebird Cab driven by Adolf Fred Heglin, 1156 View Street, were taken to Jubilee Hospital.

They are Mrs. E. Hurjck, Saskatoon, back injuries; Mrs. M. Smith, Burnaby, shock and an injured shoulder, and Mrs. B. Williamson, 62 Government, who suffered lacerations about the nose and ear. Police said Mrs. Williamson was host to her out-of-town guests on a sightseeing trip over the mountain highway.

Miss Lena Galt was a passenger in a car driven by her sister, Miss Muriel Galt. The two women reside at 1005 St. Charles Street.

The injured woman suffered shock, fractures and bruises. Her condition was given as "good" following her admittance to hospital but worsened overnight.

It is presumed that the car driven by Miss Galt pulled out to pass the taxi, swung in too close and locked bumpers with the taxi, police said.

The Galt sisters have lived in Victoria for many years. Their father, Alexander Galt, was finance minister in the Cartier-Macdonald government in 1858 and saw the first four provinces united, Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. He had 13 children, five sons and eight daughters.

IN THE BRIER CUP

Alberta Undefeated; B.C. Beats N.S. 10-5

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—Alberta continued its smart victory march today through the dominion curling championships by downing last-place Newfoundland 20-6 for a seven-game winning streak.

Matt Baldwin of Edmonton took a 2-0 in the first end and was never headed by Robert Kent's quartette from St. John's, which has failed to gain a single win in seven tries.

Alberta had its strongest end in 13th, good for five counters, and scored another four in the last end.

The major upset of the morning draw was Saskatchewan's 10-8 win over Northern Ontario, although Don Groom's Sudbury rink still held down second place in the round-robin series.

The Campbell rink from Avonlea, Sask., had to overcome a big deficit to gain its victory. The decisive play was a three-ender in the important 11th after the Groom rink miscued on knockout rocks.

In other games of the seventh draw, British Columbia downed New Brunswick 10-5, Nova Scotia defeated Prince Edward Island 16-4, and Ontario scored five counters in the ninth for a 13-10 win over Quebec.

Manitoba relaxed this morning with a bye.

Girl Thinks Ex-Lover Involved In Peculiar Death of Rome Beauty

ROME, Italy (UP)—A glamorous daughter of a prominent lawyer testified today she suspected her blue-blooded former lover and the son of the Italian foreign minister were "somehow mixed up" in the sensational death of a 21-year-old Roman beauty.

Anna Maria Moneta Caglio, 23-year-old star witness, testified in the opening day of the resumed trial of journalist Silvano Muto in Rome's penal court. The case, dubbed Italy's "scandal of the century," involves alleged narcotics traffic, sex, good-time girls and top-level politicians.

Miss Moneta Caglio, whom the press has labeled "The Black Swan," said her suspicions about Piero Piccioni, son of foreign minister Attilio Piccioni, and about the wealthy Marchese Ugo Montagna, her one-time lover, arose from an overheard telephone conversation between the two "good friends."

All Italy has been agog over the case stirred up by Muto, 26-year-old editor and publisher of the sensational magazine Attualita.

He charged that beautiful Wilma Montesi, who was found dead and half disrobed on a lonely beach outside Rome last April 12, died of an overdose of drugs.

Muto was charged by the state with spreading false and tendentious information liable to disturb public order.

The magazine story directly implicated the Marchese Ugo Montaga in allegations of narcotics traffic and sex orgies at the St. Hubert Hunting Club, which is frequented by Italy's nobility.

FBI on Guard Against Ike Assassination

From UP and AP Dispatches

WASHINGTON — Federal authorities fear Puerto Rican Nationalists may try to assassinate President Eisenhower or Secretary of State John Foster Dulles as a "death present" for their ailing leader, a high government source reported today.

Pedro Albizu Campos, brooding head of the Nationalist party, lies seriously ill in Puerto Rico. Although he is not considered in immediate danger of death, officials believe his declining health could be very explosive.

If Albizu's fanatical followers feel he has little longer to live, the government source said there is a definite fear here that they may make another suicidal attack on U.S. leaders as a final "present."

The latest developments:

1. It was learned from authoritative sources that the FBI repeatedly has warned the justice department that Nationalists were conspiring to assassinate U.S. leaders.

2. The justice department put it up to the FBI to produce enough evidence to smash the Nationalist party by prosecuting its leaders under the Smith Act that makes it a crime to advocate the overthrow of the government. If it gets the evidence, the department is understood to be ready to seek indictments.

3. Police seized five Puerto Ricans early today in Chicago, and two in Havana, Cuba, in a roundup of leaders of the Puerto Rican Nationalist movement.

Officers declined to say what action would be taken against the men.

4. Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich.), the man most seriously wounded in the assault, was removed from the "critical" list Wednesday but his condition was reported as still serious today. The other four congressional victims were out of danger.

The FBI, secret service and uniformed police in Washington were on a 24-hour alert against possible new Nationalist violence in the light of the reported assassination plot and the fear of a "death present."

IRREVERENT, MAYBE . . . BUT PHILIP LOVES IT

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Melbourne university students today poked fun at the royal tour in an irreverent reception for the Duke of Edinburgh—and he loved it.

Outside the university union house, the students unrolled a moth-eaten carpet for the duke, presented him with a pair of crutches, an admission ticket and a huge silver key.

One student prepared to read a speech of welcome compressed into a summary "which will not take longer than one and one-half hours to read." He threw it into the air instead and, as the pages showered around him, the duke said with a grin: "That was a good speech."

City Agrees to Pay Share of School Cost

Meeting With School Board Abortive As Mayor Hints at Bankruptcy Threat

City council this afternoon agreed to pay its share of the 1954 Greater Victoria School Board budget.

Mayor Claude L. Harrison said he disapproved of "the whole business" but there was no point in going to arbitration.

The city has ordered arbitration proceedings on the school budget in previous years, which have not resulted in any reduction.

Increasing school costs may force the city of Victoria to introduce a business tax, Mayor Claude Harrison warned Wednesday night.

The mayor, Ald. Frank Mulliner and city manager Cecil Wyatt attended a special school board meeting to see if the board's 1954 budget might be trimmed.

The board said no, and Mayor Harrison left the meeting saying he would "take the matter to the government."

Prompted by Mayor Harrison throughout the meeting to render suggestions for a cut in estimates, the board repeatedly referred to the standard of education demanded by the public and termed it "a costly process."

The only item which could be cut from the budget, said Trustee W. H. Golby, is a $6,000 allocation for assessment of school properties.

Trustee Austin Curtis, however, felt that an appraisal "may be an economic step." He said the work had been put off year after year.

14,000 Students By 1959

Board chairman Walter Jeune said the school population is increasing at the rate of 1,000 per year and that by 1959 the student population of Greater Victoria will be in excess of 14,000.

"Our teachers' salaries," the chairman continued, "are quite a deal lower than they are in many districts."

He said that with the prevailing scarcity of teachers, Victoria cannot attract good ones unless a reasonably good salary is paid.

"Our teachers' salaries are low . . . only because teachers like to live here," said W. H. Haldane, school board solicitor.

Mayor Harrison said that the city's biggest trouble is money.

"Where are we going to get it? Who is going to pay for it? . . . We are going to go broke," he said.

The mayor expressed fear of bankruptcy.

"Unless something is done by holding the line, I'm telling you we are going there," he emphasized.

The board, said Mr. Jeune, "has spent hours keeping down the budget."

Chairman of the finance committee, Mr. Golby, said: "We have come to realize that the Canadian way of education is a costly process."

"You are now the victims of a curriculum. Get the government to modify it," Ald. Frank Mulliner retorted.

Public Demands High Standard

Mr. Golby said that "the public wouldn't go for that," and that it is demanding a higher standard of education. The only changes that could be made (beside the $6,000) would be so "superficial" that they would have little bearing on the overall budget.

"Then we'll very likely have a business tax," said Mayor Harrison.

Mr. Curtis said that council can refuse the school board's budget on only two points—that the budget is excessive or that it is beyond the means of the municipality to pay.

"If you can show excessiveness in the budget, I for one would be prepared to cut it," said Mr. Curtis. He said that tax collections in the city last year hit a record and that he "can't share his worship's gloomy picture of the situation."

Trustees Mrs. G. E. McGill vigorously opposed Ald. Mulliner's suggestion to cut out pre-primary classes. She said "we are miles behind older countries regarding the establishment of pre-primary classes. If we closed them, we wouldn't gain a great deal financially."

The City of Victoria's share in school costs for 1954 amounts to $1,569,402, representnig an increase of $140,049 over last year. Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Saanich and rural areas have accepted the 1954 school board estimates.

New Use for Gas Mask

When washing dishes with tap water in Prince Albert, Sask., a gas mask is needed, says Bill Mills, who works in one of the city's restaurants. The unpalatable taste and odor in the water supply, drawn from the North Saskatchewan River, has bothered residents for more than three months. The trouble is said to lie in the multi-million-dollar petrochemical and refining area on Edmonton's eastern outskirts, which has been ordered to stop dumping waste chemicals into the river. Rowles Inquest Set For Friday Morning

Jury Will Probe Car Crash Which Took Life Of Bandmaster, Injured Five Others

Inquest into the death of Charles H. Rowles, Victoria's "Little Bandmaster," killed in an auto crash Wednesday afternoon, will take place at 10.30 a.m. Friday at Chaplin's Funeral Home.

Further details of the tragic accident which took the life of one of the city's most beloved figures were disclosed overnight.

Mr. Rowles, whose sight was failing, was on his way with a party of blind people to attend a meeting at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind headquarters when the crash occurred.

Five other persons were injured.

Mr. Rowles, 65, had been the Victoria Boys' Band leader since 1921.

Force of impact with the truck threw his 112-pound body out of the car, smashing his head against a curb.

He was Victoria's first 1954 traffic fatality.

He was pronounced dead soon after arrival at Jubilee Hospital.

Among the hurt were two other blind persons and two sighted. One was the driver of the Northwestern Creameries' truck, Charles MacFarlane. None of the injuries were serious and only two were in hospital today.

(See pictures, Page 13)

The accident took place at the corner of Cook and Pembroke Streets at about 1.30 p.m. A passenger sedan driven by Ernest Hawker, 941 Foul Bay Road, was crossing the intersection on Pembroke, when struck by the van which was going south on Cook.

Side of the Hawker auto was caved in and both vehicles twisted off the roadway and came to rest against the fence of Royal Athletic Park.

The car tore out a stop sign as it careened to a stop.

Driver Hawker was unhurt in the crash. Beside him sat Mrs. Janet Carr, 63, of 2703 Avebury. She suffered a possible fractured left shoulder and is in satisfactory condition. She is totally blind.

Her husband, David Carr, 72, received only a forehead cut and suffered shock. He was against the right front door which was stove in by the nose of the truck. He is still in hospital. Fully sighted, Mr. Carr acts as a guide to his wife on the weekly excursion to White Cane Club meetings.

In the back seat on the right sat Ernest Weber, 45, of 2001 Cameron. He had a slight head abrasion. He is partially blind. Mrs. Weber, 45, sat beside him. She has full use of her eyes. She emerged from the crash with three broken ribs but was released from hospital with Mr Weber.

The man who died was seated in the position farthest removed from the point of impact, in the left rear. But with the crash the left rear door flew open and he was thrown out.

Malahat Crash Victim In Critical Condition

A 90-year-old woman, Miss Lena Galt, is in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today following a two-car collision on the Malahat Wednesday night.

Three other persons were less seriously injured.

Miss Galt is a daughter of one of the Fathers of Confederation, Sir Alexander Tilloch Galt.

The accident occurred at about 5.15 p.m. when a taxi and a private car both heading south sideswiped and collided just below the entrance to Hall's Boathouse.

Three passengers in a Bluebird Cab driven by Adolf Fred Heglin, 1156 View Street, were taken to Jubilee Hospital.

They are Mrs. E. Hurjck, Saskatoon, back injuries; Mrs. M. Smith, Burnaby, shock and an injured shoulder, and Mrs. B. Williamson, 62 Government, who suffered lacerations about the nose and ear. Police said Mrs. Williamson was host to her out-of-town guests on a sightseeing trip over the mountain highway.

Miss Lena Galt was a passenger in a car driven by her sister, Miss Muriel Galt. The two women reside at 1005 St. Charles Street.

The injured woman suffered shock, fractures and bruises. Her condition was given as "good" following her admittance to hospital but worsened overnight.

It is presumed that the car driven by Miss Galt pulled out to pass the taxi, swung in too close and locked bumpers with the taxi, police said.

The Galt sisters have lived in Victoria for many years. Their father, Alexander Galt, was finance minister in the Cartier-Macdonald government in 1858 and saw the first four provinces united, Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. He had 13 children, five sons and eight daughters.

To Protest Any Sales Tax Hike

Protest against government-hinted increase in the provincial sales tax will be laid before Victoria's MLAs by the city's motor dealers Friday morning. Similar protests are being registered by dealers elsewhere through local MLAs.

Edward Orr, manager, Motor Dealer's Association of B.C., today told Cabinet ministers the rumored increase to five per cent would "substantially increase" cost of cars, at a time when B.C. motorists are "the most heavily taxed in the country."

New Jet Bombers Ready For Service This Year

LONDON (AP)—Britain is building a powerful force of atom bombers to guarantee peace by impressing "any potential enemy with the suicidal folly of aggression," the government announced today.

Parliamentary Air Secretary George Ward told the Commons "we shall continue our policy of strength through quality and hitting power rather than sacrifice this in an attempt to achieve weight of numbers."

Ward asked Commons approval of a £491,640,000 ($1,376,592,000) bill to run the RAF for the year beginning next April 1. This is £6,360,000 ($17,808,000) less than last year and only slightly under the budget for the army.

NEW BOMBERS COMING

Ward said the first of Britain's revolutionary four-engine jet bombers, the triangle-shaped Valient will join the RAF this year. Two other long-range jet bombers, the Vulcan and Victor, will be close behind.

Ward said Britain's aim is to "do everything possible to prevent a war happening and to prepare to take the shock of it if it comes."

He said a whole fleet of supersonic jet fighters—the Swift—is being rushed to completion as the backbone of Britain's defense.

Ward added that another jet fighter, the Javelin, will soon join the RAF and help double the size of Britain's night fighter force.

Alta. Curlers Still Unbeaten

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—Alberta continued its smart victory march today through the dominion curling championships by downing last-place Newfoundland 20-6 for a seven-game winning streak.

Matt Baldwin of Edmonton took a 2-0 in the first end and was never headed by Robert Kent's quartette from St. John's, which has failed to gain a single win in seven tries.

The major upset of the morning draw was Saskatchewan's 10-8 win over Northern Ontario, although Don Groom's Sudbury rink still held down second place in the round-robin series.

In other games of the seventh draw, British Columbia downed New Brunswick 10-5, Nova Scotia defeated Prince Edward Island 16-4, and Ontario scored five counters in the ninth for a 13-10 win over Quebec.

12-Foot Drifts Isolate Many Ontario Areas

By BRITISH UNITED PRESS

Highway snow plows bucked drifts up to 12 feet deep today in efforts to reach scores of small southwestern Ontario communities isolated for four days by the worst series of storms in 50 years.

Southern Ontario was virtually an emergency area as the latest storm passed over. The city of Chatham and many smaller communities were isolated, thousands of children were home from school, all travel was stopped except by train, and communication lines were down.

Crews working day and night finally managed to clear a road into Windsor at noon today but it urged motorists to stay at home except for the most urgent travel. Officials said driving conditions around Chatham and London were "hazardous if not impossible."

Highways through stricken Ontario areas were lined with trucks and cars Wednesday night while their occupants canvassed farmhouses for any sort of accommodation.

Traffic was cut off to Dresden, Blenheim, Ridgetown, Tilbury, Erieau and Thamesville. Thamesville could not be reached even by telephone. Telephone and telegraph wires to Kincardine also were down and only trains were getting through.

The main force of the storm missed Toronto but left ice-glazed streets which caused mile-long traffic jams this morning.

EPIC OF EVEREST THRILLS CITY GIRL

A Victoria girl at present studying at McGill University has written her mother an enthusiastic review of the Sir Edmund Hillary illustrated lecture, which she saw at Currie Memorial Gymnasium in Montreal recently.

"They (Hillary, Lowe and Dr. Evans) captivated us all with their excellent account of the climb," the Victoria student wrote.

"The immense color slides are breath-taking.

"It is done so well that you can almost imagine that you yourself are the ones to reach the summit of Everest first."

This view was confirmed in a long-distance telephone conversation between the Times and James Morris, London Times reporter, who is traveling with the team, in San Francisco. "The pictures are excellent," said Morris.

The team arrives in Victoria Sunday night. They appear at Memorial Arena, under Times sponsorship, Monday night.

A concert by the band of HMCS Naden at 7.30 p.m. precedes the lecture, which commences at 8.

LONDON (UP) — Britain opened formal trade negotiations with Communist Poland today and shortly will open similar talks with Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

Girl Thinks Ex-Lover Involved In Peculiar Death of Rome Beauty

ROME, Italy (UP)—A glamorous daughter of a prominent lawyer testified today she suspected her blue-blooded former lover and the son of the Italian foreign minister were "somehow mixed up" in the sensational death of a 21-year-old Roman beauty.

Anna Maria Moneta Caglio, 23-year-old star witness, testified in the opening day of the resumed trial of journalist Silvano Muto in Rome's penal court. The case, dubbed Italy's "scandal of the century," involves alleged narcotics traffic, sex, good-time girls and top-level politicians.

Miss Moneta Caglio, whom the press has labeled "The Black Swan," said her suspicions about Piero Piccioni, son of foreign minister Attilio Piccioni, and about the wealthy Marchese Ugo Montagna, her one-time lover, arose from an overheard telephone conversation between the two "good friends."

All Italy has been agog over the case stirred up by Muto, 26-year-old editor and publisher of the sensational magazine Attualita.

He charged that beautiful Wilma Montesi, who was found dead and half disrobed on a lonely beach outside Rome last April 12, died of an overdose of drugs.

Muto was charged by the state with spreading false and tendentious information liable to disturb public order.

The magazine story directly implicated the Marchese Ugo Montaga in allegations of narcotics traffic and sex orgies at the St. Hubert Hunting Club, which is frequented by Italy's nobility.
